Race Violence Quelled By Use Of Fire Hoses

Mob Scattered At Chattanooga In Day Of Tension

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A tense crowd of several thousand white persons and Negroes was scattered with fire hoses late Wednesday in Chattanooga's second day of race violence.

Ignoring pleas of school officials to remain away from downtown, hundreds of youths converged on the area as classes were dismissed for the day.

White persons lined the sidewalks and all available police were mobilized when about 50 Negro high school students approached the downtown area. The number of Negroes swelled as they walked along the street. Police attempted to keep the two groups separate. Numerous scuffles broke out, and a dozen or more were arrested.

Police tried to keep the crowd moving as it spilled over into the street. Cars could barely move.

When the crowd refused to disperse, a fire hose was hooked up.

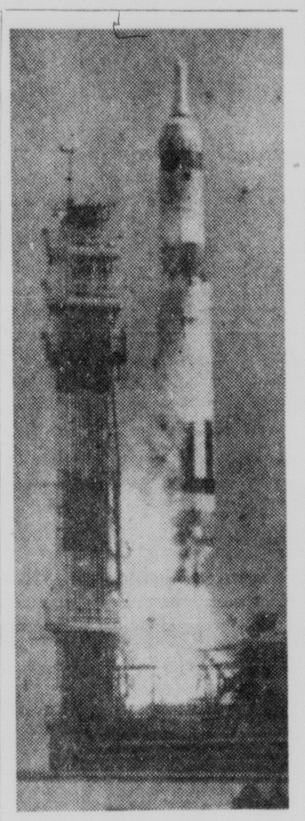
The firemen turned on the water, sprayed the crowd, and the soaked men, women and youngsters scattered.

Variety and department stores closed their lunch counters early. The stores remained open, but were almost deserted when the people crowded the streets.

Few words were spoken as the Negroes walked past the white crowds. A loud shout went up when police broke up scuffles.

The Negroes made no move to enter the variety stores, scene of Tuesday's free-for-all between white and Negro youths. Twelve persons—11 white persons and one Negro—were arrested and two injured in the melee. It began when the Negroes demonstrated for the third time in five days against segregated lunch counters.



TITAN TAKEOFF—The Air Force's intercontinental range Titan missile leaves its launch pad on the start of a successful 5,000-mile flight down the Atlantic missile range yesterday. The nose cone with data capsule plunged into the sea between Africa and the hump of Brazil and was recovered. (AP Photofax from U.S. Air Force).

"Titan" Passes Big Milestone

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Titan missile Wednesday raised America's hopes of narrowing the missile gap with the Soviet Union when it successfully flew the intercontinental-range course for the first time.

The 98-foot giant, being developed as this nation's most potent military rocket, hurled an operational type nose cone 5,007 miles to an intended target off the South Atlantic island of Ascension.

A data capsule was ejected from the nose cone after it plunged through the intense heat of re-entry into the earth's atmosphere. The temperature on the surface of the cone reached about 12,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Two hours later a recovery ship plucked the capsule from the water. It contained instruments to record the cone's performance.

The Air Force announced the test was successful.

The success is certain to relieve some of the pressure on the Titan, which has been under severe congressional criticism because of a series of failures dating to last May.

Segni's Italian Regime Falls; In Office Year

ROME (AP)—Premier Antonio Segni's single-party Christian Democrat government fell Wednesday night after one year and nine days in office.

The Segni government had been kept in power, despite its lack of a majority in Parliament, by support from the small free enterprise Liberal party, the Fascists and the Monarchists.

The Liberals, who have 17 seats in the Chamber of Deputies, decided last week to withdraw their parliamentary support from Segni. They objected to the government's approval of Gronchi's Moscow visit and also were unhappy because some factions of the Christian Democrats had been wooing Pietro Nenni's leftwing Socialists.

Segni presented his governments resignation to Gronchi at Quirinal Palace. Gronchi, acting under traditional procedure, reserved his decision about accepting it. He now will consult with political leaders on naming a new premier.

Paper Clouds, Cheers Greet Eisenhower

President Issues Hands-Off Warning To Reds In Address

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Brazilians welcomed President Eisenhower with cheers and a blizzard of confetti and streamers Wednesday. The crowds were described by police as the greatest for any visitor in Rio de Janeiro's four-century history.

Eisenhower, hailed as a champion of peace, said he was greatly impressed by the turnout. He smiled and waved as packed throngs of men, women, and children acclaimed him on a drive along the skyscraper-lined Avenida Rio Branco, the main business street, and the long palm-dotted drive fronting on Guanabara Bay. The drive took more than an hour.

Eisenhower took up the serious business of his four-nation South American tour in responding to an official welcome before the parade and in an address to Brazil's Congress afterward.

Warning To Communists

With the Communists evidently in mind, he sounded a hands-off warning to any ideology threatening to deny American nations the right to choose their own way of life. He called for the banishment of war and diversion of armament money to global attacks on disease, ignorance and poverty. He suggested a speed-up in studies for promotion of the Western Hemisphere's economic development.

Wednesday night, Eisenhower was guest of honor at a dinner at the Brazilian Foreign Ministry in Itamaraty Palace. In a toast he referred to the members of his official party and said their presence on his trip "symbolizes the high importance we of my country attach to good relations with all the nations of Latin America."

"I know that what we are all learning, and shall observe throughout this trip," he said "will be helpful to us as we seek constantly to work for hemispheric solidarity."

Because of a pouring rain, the Brazilian government called off a reception for Eisenhower that had been scheduled to follow the dinner.

Temperature About 80

But the big show was in the broad streets this bright but humid summer day. The temperature was about 80 degrees.

Samba bands were out in this city of three million, nestled between the mountains and the sea, long before Eisenhower's big jet roared in from Brasilia, the sprawling new capital-to-be 600 miles northwest of Rio.

"Ike! Ike! Ike!" was the carioca cry of the day. Sometimes the Portuguese rendition came out in two syllables," "ee-kee."

Student elements joined in the acclaim for Eisenhower, but student leftwingers had a good word too for Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro, a critic of the Eisenhower administration.

"We like Ike—and Fidel Castro," said a sign strung across student headquarters, with bigger letters emphasizing Castro's name. A sign hung across the

Timing Of Bonn Spanish Bases Plan Deplored

BONN, Germany (AP) — Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss exchanged sharp words with the U. S. and British ambassadors Wednesday over a Bonn proposal to set up military supply bases in Spain.

The ambassadors, Walter C. Dowling of the United States and Sir Christopher Steel of Britain, told Strauss their governments are distressed over the timing of the German move, authoritative informants reported.

Strauss said he was angry that reports of the plan had leaked to the press. He also said he was dismayed at press criticism that the move would revive memories of German-Spanish cooperation during Hitler's time.

One British newspaper, the London Daily Express, said in a headline Wednesday the plan unveiled "the new German Axis."

The upshot is that the base plan is likely to be kicked under the rug, at least until after the May 16 East-West summit meeting, reliable informants said. The attitude of the British Foreign Office has been that Germany's plan would throw a cloud over the summit conference.

But the German defense minister sought support from the United States and Britain for the project, arguing that front-line West Germany urgently needs more space for munitions dumps, military fuel supply, spare parts, and hospital equipment. The Defense Ministry has denied it wants bombing ranges or missile bases in Spain as some reports have said.

The two ambassadors told Strauss their governments were not raising objections to the proposals, but that the issue should be thrashed out in NATO. But they said they believe the Germans handled the delicate project in an unfortunate manner.

Gibbons, Five Other Teamsters Indicted

Accused Of Illegal Political Donations

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Harold J. Gibbons, right-hand man of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, and five other Teamsters officials were indicted Wednesday on federal charges of making illegal political contributions.

A 22-count federal grand jury indictment also charged two Teamsters Union locals in St. Louis with violations of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act. They are Warehouse and Distribution Workers Local 688 — the state's largest local with more than 10,000 members—and Taxicab Drivers Local 405.

Others charged in addition to Gibbons were John Naber, secretary and William Latal, president of Local 688; Philip C. Reichardt, acting secretary, and Joseph Bommarito, business agent of Local 405; and Sidney Zagri, legislative counsel for the international union and former director of political activities for Local 688.

The 49-year-old Gibbons testified extensively before the Senate rackets committee in August and September 1958. He is an international vice president, Hoffa's administrative assistant, an officer of Local 688 and president of Joint Council 13, which directs all Teamsters locals in St. Louis.

Teamsters headquarters in Washington issued a statement by Gibbons saying the indictment was part of what he callled an Eisenhower administration policy "to harass unions in an effort to weaken them or, if possible, destroy them."

The defendants were charged with making illegal political contributions totaling $12,763 in amounts ranging from $250 to $5,000 to the campaigns of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo), Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif), Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis), and two Missouri congressional candidates, James Sullivan and Robert G. Dowd, both Democrats.

End To Racial Bias Demanded By Nixon Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon Wednesday launched a twin drive on employers and labor unions to give Negroes an equal chance for federal contract jobs.

The President's Committee on Government Contracts unanimously adopted an action program which Nixon said he believed has "a good chance of making a breakthrough."

The committee demanded a government crackdown to make contractors comply with the clauses, contained in all government contracts, banning job discrimination on account of race, color, creed or national origin.

At the same time, organized labor as represented at the meeting by AFL-CIO President George Meany and Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, pledged an all-out drive to get local labor unions to quit blocking aecess of Negroes to such federal jobs.

The committee took Meany up on an offer to furnish qualified nonunion Negro craftsmen for contractors where local AFL-CIO unions refused to cooperate.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, committee vice chairman, applauded Meany's position.

Mitchell said primary responsibility rests with the employers to see to it that qualified Negroes get an equal chance with white workers for available jobs.

25 More Bodies Found In Mine

BERLIN (UPI)—Rescue teams braving 140-degree heat Wednesday found 25 more bodies in the flaming depths of the Karl Marx coal mine where another 79 miners were still trapped.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl visited the site in Zwickau and ordered rescue work to continue as long as "one spark of hope remains." But there was little hope that any of the 79 trapped men were alive.

The 25 bodies brought out on Wednesday raised the known death toll to 44.

A total of 49 men were rescued since the explosion and fire Monday, some of them in critical condition.

"Obstruction" Dixie Strategy In Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southerners, outnumbered in the Senate's civil rights battle, announced Wednesday they'll fight back with alll the obstructive tactics of a filibuster.

Beginning Thursday Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said, the Southerners will not permit the Senate to transact any business that requires unanimous consent.

The unanimous-consent device is much used to speed along Senate work, and its absence could be a considerable handicap.

Russell said obstructive devices would be in order as retaliation to the call by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate leader, to begin around-the-clock Senate sessions Monday.

Continuous sessions could be expected to wear down physically the Southerners fighting off new federal rights legislation. Russell called the proposal a "kind of legislative torture."

However, a foremost backer of rights legislation, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), proceeded on the assumption that day and night sessions are a certainty and a necessity if the Senate is ever to pass on whether to help Southern Negroes vote.

"As we get into 'round-the-clock sessions and some understandable irritation of tempers on the subject," Javits told the Senate, "let us remember that notwithstanding the niceties of parliamentary procedures . . . there are great issues at stake."

Johnson, a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination who needs both Southern and Northern support, told newsmen: "The Senate is determined to pass an effective bill to guarantee effective voting rights."

Shot To Death After Slaying Four Persons

Mountaineer Loses Blazing Gun Battle Near Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A berserk mountaineer killed four persons—three of them women—and wounded five others before officers killed him in blazing gun battle Wednesday.

Dan Raymond, 42, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, was shot dead after he dived from a second story window of the house where he had been holed up eight hours.

State Trooper Jack Bingham opened up with a machinegun behind the protection of an Army tank as Raymond made a desperate move to drive off in his car.

Two of the women were found outside Raymond's home at Chalk Hill—about eight miles east of Uniontown. They were identified as Mary Frances Sisler, 61, and Edna Maes, 53, both of Ohiopyle, Pa.

Mrs. Maes was the wife of the Rev. Ned Maes, pastor of the Ford City (Pa.) Baptist church. She and Mrs. Sisler were en route to Uniontown to meet the minister.

State Police theorized Raymond shot the women as they drove past his house. One of the women apparently tried to run away from the car and was shot down in the road.

Young Mother Of Two Slain

The other woman killed was May Maust, 20, of Farmington, Pa. She was found in an auto, along with her wounded husband, Carlus, and their two children, Mary 3, and Eddie, 18 months. Maust and the children had been wounded by shotgun pellets. They were admitted to Uniontown Hospital.

Shot to death earlier was William Burd, 49, of Farmington, a highways maintenance foreman.

Among those wounded were Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohiopyle and Lawrence Swenglish, 18, of Haddonville, Pa.

Cromwell, bleeding from gunshot wounds of the face and shoulder staggered from the woods seven hours after he was shot.

Said Cromwell: "I was driving along the highway when all of a sudden my windshield shattered. I felt blood on my face and hit the floor.

"I lay there half dazed for what seemed eternity and then crawled out on the other side of the car.

"Finally, after several hours I reached a neighbor's house. They called the ambulance and took me to the hospital."

Tank Called In

Burd was shot after he and a co-worker, Robert Rickey, had stopped to cinder Raymond's driveway.

Police surrounded the house early in the day and kept exchanging gunfire with Raymond — an avid hunter and an expert marksman.

It was impossible for officers to approach the house nestled in a field with no trees or protective covering for about 300 feet on all sides.

State Police then obtained a war tank from an Army reserve unit. It was commanded by Capt. Lawrence Aller and carried a crew of three.

They lobbed one tear gas shell after another and opened up with machinegun fire. Bursts from the incendiary shells set fire to the house.

It was at this point Raymond leaped from the second floor win-

Finch Defense Destroyed By Envelope Of Talcum Powder, Prosecution Claims

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecution closed its final arguments in the Finch murder trial Wednesday with these claims:

1. Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff hoped to solve all their problems, financial and romantic, with "one shot in the back"—the back of the doctor's socialite wife.

2. A single piece of evidence—an envleope containing talcum powder for a surgeon's gloves—destroys the entire defense of the wealthy physician and his pretty paramour.

3. The defendants carefully plotted the murder of Barbara Jean Finch, but forgot one thing; how to explain it if they were caught.

Prosecutor Clifford Crail, winding up a scathing attack with a demand for first-degree murder convictions, said the handsome surgeon and his mistress were desperate because his wife stood to gain his wealth via divorce, ruining him.

The shot in the back, he said, took care of that: "No scandal, no divorce, no property settlement no alimony, no delay in getting married, and a substantial sum of $25,000 from the insurance company."

Finch and Miss Tregoff are accused of coldly plotting the murder of Mrs. Finch at her home in suburban West Covina the night of last July 18.

The prosecution claims their plan was to kill her and make it look accidental, and when this plan went awry they hoped to make it look like a robber's work.

The doctor says he shot his wife accidentally during a struggle for a gun she pulled when he and Miss Tregoff went to talk to her about her divorce plans.

Crail, making a surprise claim, said the envelope of talcum powder destroys the "fantastic string of events" on which the doctor based his defense — "It leaves nothing of his story."

The envelope was in a package containing a pair of surgeon's gloves. The package was in an attache case found at the slaying scene. The prosecution calls the case a "murder kit."

The gloves were torn. The doctor said they were ripped when he used them to tease the family dog —blowing them up like balloons —while he awaited his wife's arrival. Crail said he wore the gloves to hide his fingerprints when he attacked his wife and they were torn as he fought her.

Van Rie, In Court Drama, Tells Of Police Grilling, Then Denies He Slew Divorcee

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch seafarer Willem van Rie climaxed a dramatic 30-minute monologue with a flat one-word denial Wednesday that he killed Lynn Kauffman.

"Did you kill her?" the handsome 31-year-old ship's radio operator was asked a moment before his first degree murder trial recessed overnight.

"No," replied Van Rie.

He said he was pounded verbally in night-long questioning until he admitted being in the 23-year-old American divorcee's cabin aboard the Dutch ship Utrecht the night of her death Sept. 18. But he added that he quickly retracted his admission that he quarreled with the girl and struck her and told his interrogators: "You took the wrong man. You have not got the murderer."

Actually, Van Rie—on the stand most of the day — testified he hadn't seen the girl for some 12 hours before her death. At the time she went overboard into Boston Harbor he said he was tied down with his duties as radio operator of the Utrecht.

It was Van Rie's recital of his police grilling that held the packed courtroom enthralled. For more than 30 minutes he testified without interruption.

He told how the police sought his admission that he beat Miss Kauffman senseless in her cabin during a quarrel and threw her overboard to drown. That was during intensive overnight questioning that ended in his arrest Sept. 30 in Brooklyn. The Utrecht had gone on to New York from Boston after Miss Kauffman's disappearance.

"You're going to burn for it, it's going to cost you your life," Van Rie quoted his police questioners. "Give us something. Say she got crazy and jumped overboard."

With an eloquent shrug, Van Rie testified he finally gave in and made the admission that he quarreled with Lynn in her cabin — an admission that is at the heart of the state's case against him.

He added that under police prompting he owned up to a shipboard romance with Miss Kauffman, hoping that by acceding to all their demands he might win release so he could return to his ship and muster proof of his innocence.

But when told he was under arrest, Van Rie said he retracted his admission. He then testified: "I was completely desperate. I tried to explain how I came by that false statement. In your desperation, you're talking more, trying to convince them you had nothing to do with it—and you're trapped in a booby trap."

End To Racial Bias Demanded By Nixon Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon Wednesday launched a twin drive on employers and labor unions to give Negroes an equal chance for federal contract jobs.

The President's Committee on Government Contracts unanimously adopted an action program which Nixon said he believed has "a good chance of making a breakthrough."

The committee demanded a government crackdown to make contractors comply with the clauses, contained in all government contracts, banning job discrimination on account of race, color, creed or national origin.

At the same time, organized labor as represented at the meeting by AFL-CIO President George Meany and Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, pledged an all-out drive to get local labor unions to quit blocking access of Negroes to such federal jobs.

The committee took Meany up on an offer to furnish qualified nonunion Negro craftsmen for contractors where local AFL-CIO unions refused to cooperate.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, committee vice chairman, applauded Meany's position.

Mitchell said primary responsibility rests with the employers to see to it that qualified Negroes get an equal chance with white workers for available jobs.

25 More Bodies Found In Mine

BERLIN (UPI)—Rescue teams braving 140-degree heat Wednesday found 25 more bodies in the flaming depths of the Karl Marx coal mine where another 79 miners were still trapped.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl visited the site in Zwickau and ordered rescue work to continue as long as "one spark of hope remains." But there was little hope that any of the 79 trapped men were alive.

The 25 bodies brought out on Wednesday raised the known death toll to 44.

A total of 49 men were rescued since the explosion and fire Monday, some of them in critical condition.

"Obstruction" Dixie Strategy In Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southerners, outnumbered in the Senate's civil rights battle, announced Wednesday they'll fight back with alll the obstructive tactics of a filibuster.

Beginning Thursday Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said, the Southerners will not permit the Senate to transact any business that requires unanimous consent.

The unanimous-consent device is much used to speed along Senate work, and its absence could be a considerable handicap.

Russell said obstructive devices would be in order as retaliation to the call by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate leader, to begin around-the-clock Senate sessions Monday.

Continuous sessions could be expected to wear down physically the Southerners fighting off new federal rights legislation. Russell called the proposal a "kind of legislative torture."

However, a foremost backer of rights legislation, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), proceeded on the assumption that day and night sessions are a certainty and a necessity if the Senate is ever to pass on whether to help Southern Negroes vote.

"As we get into 'round-the-clock sessions and some understandable irritation of tempers on the subject," Javits told the Senate, "let us remember that notwithstanding the niceties of parliamentary procedures . . . there are great issues at stake."

Johnson, a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination who needs both Southern and Northern support, told newsmen: "The Senate is determined to pass an effective bill to guarantee effective voting rights."

Shot To Death After Slaying Four Persons

Mountaineer Loses Blazing Gun Battle Near Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A berserk mountaineer killed four persons—three of them women—and wounded five others before officers killed him in blazing gun battle Wednesday.

Dan Raymond, 42, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, was shot dead after he dived from a second story window of the house where he had been holed up eight hours.

State Trooper Jack Bingham opened up with a machinegun behind the protection of an Army tank as Raymond made a desperate move to drive off in his car.

Two of the women were found outside Raymond's home at Chalk Hill—about eight miles east of Uniontown. They were identified as Mary Frances Sisler, 61, and Edna Maes, 53, both of Ohiopyle, Pa.

Mrs. Maes was the wife of the Rev. Ned Maes, pastor of the Ford City (Pa.) Baptist church. She and Mrs. Sisler were en route to Uniontown to meet the minister.

State Police theorized Raymond shot the women as they drove past his house. One of the women apparently tried to run away from the car and was shot down in the road.

Young Mother Of Two Slain

The other woman killed was May Maust, 20, of Farmington, Pa. She was found in an auto, along with her wounded husband, Carlus, and their two children, Mary 3, and Eddie, 18 months. Maust and the children had been wounded by shotgun pellets. They were admitted to Uniontown Hospital.

Shot to death earlier was William Burd, 49, of Farmington, a highways maintenance foreman.

Among those wounded were Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohiopyle and Lawrence Swenglish, 18, of Haddonville, Pa.

Cromwell, bleeding from gunshot wounds of the face and shoulder staggered from the woods seven hours after he was shot.

Said Cromwell: "I was driving along the highway when all of a sudden my windshield shattered. I felt blood on my face and hit the floor.

"I lay there half dazed for what seemed eternity and then crawled out on the other side of the car.

"Finally, after several hours I reached a neighbor's house. They called the ambulance and took me to the hospital."

Tank Called In

Burd was shot after he and a co-worker, Robert Rickey, had stopped to cinder Raymond's driveway.

Police surrounded the house early in the day and kept exchanging gunfire with Raymond — an avid hunter and an expert marksman.

It was impossible for officers to approach the house nestled in a field with no trees or protective covering for about 300 feet on all sides.

State Police then obtained a war tank from an Army reserve unit. It was commanded by Capt. Lawrence Aller and carried a crew of three.

They lobbed one tear gas shell after another and opened up with machinegun fire. Bursts from the incendiary shells set fire to the house.

Finch Defense Destroyed By Envelope Of Talcum Powder, Prosecution Claims

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecution closed its final arguments in the Finch murder trial Wednesday with these claims:

1. Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff hoped to solve all their problems, financial and romantic, with "one shot in the back"—the back of the doctor's socialite wife.

2. A single piece of evidence—an envleope containing talcum powder for a surgeon's gloves—destroys the entire defense of the wealthy physician and his pretty paramour.

3. The defendants carefully plotted the murder of Barbara Jean Finch, but forgot one thing; how to explain it if they were caught.

Prosecutor Clifford Crail, winding up a scathing attack with a demand for first-degree murder convictions, said the handsome surgeon and his mistress were desperate because his wife stood to gain his wealth via divorce, ruining him.

The shot in the back, he said, took care of that: "No scandal, no divorce, no property settlement no alimony, no delay in getting married, and a substantial sum of $25,000 from the insurance company."

Finch and Miss Tregoff are accused of coldly plotting the murder of Mrs. Finch at her home in suburban West Covina the night of last July 18.

The prosecution claims their plan was to kill her and make it look accidental, and when this plan went awry they hoped to make it look like a robber's work.

The doctor says he shot his wife accidentally during a struggle for a gun she pulled when he and Miss Tregoff went to talk to her about her divorce plans.

Crail, making a surprise claim, said the envelope of talcum powder destroys the "fantastic string of events" on which the doctor based his defense — "It leaves nothing of his story."

The envelope was in a package containing a pair of surgeon's gloves. The package was in an attache case found at the slaying scene. The prosecution calls the case a "murder kit."

The gloves were torn. The doctor said they were ripped when he used them to tease the family dog —blowing them up like balloons —while he awaited his wife's arrival. Crail said he wore the gloves to hide his fingerprints when he attacked his wife and they were torn as he fought her.

Van Rie, In Court Drama, Tells Of Police Grilling, Then Denies He Slew Divorcee

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch seafarer Willem van Rie climaxed a dramatic 30-minute monologue with a flat one-word denial Wednesday that he killed Lynn Kauffman.

"No," replied Van Rie.

He said he was pounded verbally in night-long questioning until he admitted being in the 23-year-old American divorcee's cabin aboard the Dutch ship Utrecht the night of her death Sept. 18. But he added that he quickly retracted his admission that he quarreled with the girl and struck her and told his interrogators: "You took the wrong man. You have not got the murderer."

Actually, Van Rie—on the stand most of the day — testified he hadn't seen the girl for some 12 hours before her death. At the time she went overboard into Boston Harbor he said he was tied down with his duties as radio operator of the Utrecht.

It was Van Rie's recital of his police grilling that held the packed courtroom enthralled. For more than 30 minutes he testified without interruption.

He told how the police sought his admission that he beat Miss Kauffman senseless in her cabin during a quarrel and threw her overboard to drown. That was during intensive overnight questioning that ended in his arrest Sept. 30 in Brooklyn. The Utrecht had gone on to New York from Boston after Miss Kauffman's disappearance.

"You're going to burn for it, it's going to cost you your life," Van Rie quoted his police questioners. "Give us something. Say she got crazy and jumped overboard."

With an eloquent shrug, Van Rie testified he finally gave in and made the admission that he quarreled with Lynn in her cabin — an admission that is at the heart of the state's case against him.

He added that under police prompting he owned up to a shipboard romance with Miss Kauffman, hoping that by acceding to all their demands he might win release so he could return to his ship and muster proof of his innocence.

But when told he was under arrest, Van Rie said he retracted his admission. He then testified: "I was completely desperate. I tried to explain how I came by that false statement. In your desperation, you're talking more, trying to convince them you had nothing to do with it—and you're trapped in a booby trap."

Drug Production Highly Concentrated, Probe Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probers trying to determine if drug manufacturers have a monopoly and charge excessive prices presented figures Wednesday showing that only a few firms produce some of the major drugs.

Calling it a "remarkable degree of concentration" in manufacturing, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said, "It's by far the highest concentration of any industry I have come across."

Wednesday's only witness before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, Dr. Austin Smith, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Assn., said he was not surprised by the figures.

"It only shows the companies are producing what is needed," Smith said.

Smith said he hadn't had a chance to study the figures, presented by John Blair, the subcommittee's chief economist. The witness asked permission to make a statement on them later and Chairman Kefauver said he could do so.

Kefauver said Blair's figures were cited because Smith had testified Tuesday that there are about 1,300 drug companies in the field and no one of them accounts for as much as 10 per cent of the total sales.

Blair's 1958 figures were based on 51 different products—diabetic drugs, hormones, tranquilizers, sulfas, vitamins and antibiotics.

He said individual companies accounted for all the production of 27 of these drugs. Seven other drugs were produced exclusively by two companies, he said, and the production of nine others was concentrated in three firms.

Coming in from Brasilia, Eisenhower's jet plane landed at the Rio airport on Governor's Island. The President boarded a cabin cruiser to cross the blue bay.

Kubitschek was at the Navy Ministry's dock on the mainland for an official welcome to this capital.

Kubitschek said Brazil was receiving Eisenhower as "a fighter and a man of good will, as a clear-viewed statesman and a champion of peace."

Eisenhower said he hoped his visit "will emphasize the desire of my government and all the people of my country to strengthen the bonds of friendship with you."

Eisenhower later delivered the first major address of his 10-day tour. Before Brazil's Congress he proclaimed his hands-off warning. The key to U. S. policy, Eisenhower said, is "the right to choose," a right that should be everybody's at birth.

Taking note indirectly of Communist efforts in the Western Hemisphere, he declared: "We would consider it intervention in the internal affairs of an American state if any power, whether by invasion, coercion, or subversion, succeeded in denying freedom of choice to the people of any of our sister republics."

It all began when Raymond flagged down the highway maintenance men and asked them to cinder his driveway. He returned to the house and seconds later opened fire.

One shot cracked the windshield of the truck and struck Burd in the chest. Richey, who already had begun to scatter the cinders, yelled: "Get the truck out of here."

Although mortally wounded, Burd started up the truck but a second shot hit him in the mouth. The truck crashed against a tree. Burd was dead on arrival at the Uniontown Hospital.

Swenglish, unaware of the shooting, drove by Raymond's house, moments later, and another shot rang out. Swenglish stumbled from his truck, clutching his eye.

"I've been shot in the eye. I've been shot in the eyes," he screamed. "Somebody help me."

A third motorist, Mrs. Rogean Thompson, stopped to aid Burd when a bullet hit the dashboard of her car. Rifle slugs also were found in cars driven by I. N. Hagan, owner of the Hagan Ice Cream Co., Uniontown and A. E. Guerriere of Chalk Hill. The cars passed the scene shortly after the firing began.

Mrs. Raymond, mother of three, told police she had fled with her children to a neighbor's home Tuesday night. She explained her husband had been suffering from a nervous disorder.

"I knew something like this was going to happen," she said.

Funds For New State Yacht, Civil War Centennial Requested By Gov. Tawes

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Funds to promote Maryland's observance of the Civil War centennial and acquire a new state yacht were included in new spending proposals submitted to the Legislature Wednesday by Gov. Tawes.

He asked $150,000 for the commission planning and promoting Maryland's observance of the Civil War anniversary in 1962, and $100,000 for purchase of a new yacht if the Tidewater Fisheries Commission completes present negotiations to sell the yacht, Potomac.

They were the largest items in a supplement of $486,393 which the governor added to his 477-million-dollar budget now before Senate and House Finance Committees.

He also submitted $5,762,500 in additional requests for the capital improvements program, which is financed by long-term bond issues and includes construction and land acquisition for State agencies.

The bond bill now totals $18,996,300. The chief new item is $4,450,000 for a new motor vehicles building and driver test center to be constructed in Anne Arundel County.

Research Expedition

MOSCOW (AP)—An expedition left Leningrad Wednesday to do research for navigation maps around Franz Josef Land, a group of about 100 Soviet islands north of the Arctic Circle. Tass said an other expedition will leave Thursday to study the Severnaya Zemlya archipelago in the arctic.

The United States Capitol has 435 rooms.

The budget is to begin moving through the Senate Thursday.

Committees are believed to have trimmed his spending requests only slightly, perhaps $200,000 to $300,000 from the original proposals.

But Tawes said he would not have to dip into the "frozen" surplus of 12 million dollars to finance the additional requests.

Those for his general fund budget came to $375,000 and those for special fund agencies, supported from motor vehicle and gasoline tax revenues, totaled $110,889.

Extradition Case Closed, Tawes Tells Pa. Officials

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. J. Millard Tawes refused Wednesday to reopen an extradition case in which Pennsylvania authorities had sought custody of a Maryland dairy farmer for trial on abortion charges.

Tawes wired York County District Attorney Frank B. Boyle that there is "no provision in Maryland law or precedent in this state that allows reopening of (an) extradition case after same had been decided."

Boyle had sent the governor a telegram Tuesday asking that he reopen the case on grounds of new evidence.

Boyle Tuesday sent the governor copies of notarized court documents which he said Campbell signed as Charles Christopher Campbell, and said this showed conclusively that the 54-year-old Boring, Md., resident is the same man sought on three charges of abortion in York County.

The court papers involved a request for change of venue in the trial.

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant Maryland attorney general who advised the governor that the recent extradition proceeding could not be reopened, said Pennsylvania authorities know "perfectly well" what they must do to gain Campbell's extradition.

This would require new papers from Pennsylvania, and an amended or new indictment of Campbell, naming him correctly.

Md. Fugitive Seized In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—FBI agents Wednesday arrested Johnnie Ben Smith, 34, on charges of unlawful flight from Baltimore to avoid prosecution for murder.

Smith had been working as a hotel janitor and lived here for seven months, Special Agent Lee O. Teague said.

Teague reported Smith is accused of stabbing a man to death during a wedding party in June 1959.

In Baltimore, Special FBI Agent James J. Kelly said Smith was charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of Edmond Lake, 53, at a Baltimore adddress on June 12 or 13 last year.

Kelly said Smith will be returned to Baltimore to face the murder charge.

Denton Will Vote On Sewage Plant

DENTON, Md. (AP)—A special election will be held March 17 to let Denton voters decide on a $475,000 bond issue needed to construct a sewage disposal system.

The State Department of Health has filed a complaint in Caroline County Circuit Court charging the town with failing to conform with a 1957 order to construct new sewage facilities to check pollution of Choptank River.

In advertisements in the county's two weekly newspapers, the commissioners proposed to boost the property tax rate from $1 to $2.50 per $100 valuation to help build the plant.

The communities of Cambridge and Secretary downstream have threatened legal action against Denton and other river towns unless they act to help halt pollution of the Choptank. A 16-mile stretch of the river has been barred from oystering.

Md. Prison Escapee Waives Extradition

NEW YORK (AP) — A 41-year-old Baltimore man waived extradition Wednesday and will be returned to Maryland to face a charge of escaping from the Reformatory for Males 15 years ago.

At Hagerstown, Md., Reformatory Superintendent Clement J. Ferling said he planned to send a man to New York Thursday to place Richard Moore Davis of Baltimore under custody.

Davis was arrested by FBI agents in Brooklyn, N. Y., last Friday night on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement. He was living under the name of Edward E. Sullivan.

Davis was convicted of robbery in Baltimore in 1945 and sentenced to three years in the reformatory near Hagerstown. He walked away from a work detail.

83rd Traffic Death

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—Samuel T. Prices, 58, of Elkton, was killed near here Tuesday night when his car collided with a tractor-trailer.

It was the 83rd traffic death in Maryland this year compared with 67 a year ago.

Test Sets Off False Alarm

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Fire engines, ambulances and other emergency equipment rushed to the Easton airport Wednesday after getting a report that a four-engine plane was in trouble and circling the field.

When they reached the field, a somewhat perplexed airport manager, Web Towers, told them it was a false alarm.

There was a Capital Airlines Viscount plane circling the field, all right. But it wasn't in trouble.

However, the plane was on a mission that had to do with an earlier Viscount plane crash near Charles City, Va., Jan. 18 which took the lives of 50 persons.

A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman in Washington said the plane was recording ground-level noises which will be replayed for witnesses of the Charles City crash.

The tests were made at various altitudes between 500 and 2,000 feet. The plane was put through several maneuvers and its engine noises were recorded by a CAB investigator, Albert Brunstein, on the ground.

The witnesses will be asked to determine if the noises they hear on the recording are identical to the ones they heard before the plane crashed in Virginia.

Accused Slayer Slashes Wrists In His Jail Cell

SALISBURY (AP)—Walter William Silva, an accused wife-slayer, slashed his wrists in his cell in Wicomico County jail Wednesday but was not seriously injured.

Graham said Silva was placed in a separate cell after treatment and was resting comfortably. Five or six stitches were required for each wrist.

Jailer Albert Morris said the 39-year-old laborer had torn a mirror from the cell bars and used it to cut his wrists.

Graham quoted Silva that if he could not see his 2-year-old daughter, Christine, he wanted to die.

Silva, whose last address was Hayward, Calif., surrendered to Salisbury police Feb. 13 and was charged with murder in the death of his wife, Kathryn, 23.

Silva is being held for action of the grand jury.

Meanwhile, State Police prepared to leave for California to gather evidence in the case.

The Wicomico County commissioners voted to spend $800 or more to send State Police to California to assist in the probe. They were told by investigating officers that there are at least a dozen witnesses in California who knew the man.

Extradition Case Closed, Tawes Tells Pa. Officials

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. J. Millard Tawes refused Wednesday to reopen an extradition case in which Pennsylvania authorities had sought custody of a Maryland dairy farmer for trial on abortion charges.

Tawes wired York County District Attorney Frank B. Boyle that there is "no provision in Maryland law or precedent in this state that allows reopening of (an) extradition case after same had been decided."

Boyle had sent the governor a telegram Tuesday asking that he reopen the case on grounds of new evidence.

West Builds Huge Alarm System Along Iron Curtain

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Western powers are constructing an unprecedented electronic alarm system along the Iron Curtain which probably will be directly connected with the North American protective network, United Press International learned Tuesday.

This eventually would mean a surprise attack warning system extending from the north Pacific Ocean, across Canada and the top of the world, and down through eastern Europe to Turkey.

The European system, known as "Ace High," is being built by nine NATO nations and already is half completed. It will cost between 50 and 75 million dollars in electronic installations alone. It will extend over 8,845 miles of European territory from Norway to Turkey, making an electronic frontier flanking the Soviet Union and its satellites.

Systems Enumerated

The North American defense warning systems are:

—"Bmews," an almost parallel system to the south, running from Alaska to Frobisher, on Baffin Island, a refueling station for many commercial transpolar routes.

—"Pole Vault," the North-South alarm system connecting the first two and extending to New Foundland.

The nations constructing "Ace High," which will start 530 miles north of the Arctic Circle are Norway, Denmark, West Germany, England, Belgium, France Italy, Greece and Turkey. The system will include 86 powerful transmitting and relay stations.

The North American systems, built along the most probable line of any attempted aerial attack by missile or aircraft, are designed to alert the military commands of the United States and Canada, and to warn the civil population.

This writer has been permitted to see one reception point for any such warning of impending invasion. It is far underground at the Strategic Air Command (SAC) headquarters near Omaha, Nebraska. The grimly efficient little room in turn has direct communication lines to the White House and to major military command centers in the United States and Canada.

It also has a small telephone switchboard where a flip of a switch brings instant voice communication to every SAC base of the U. S. including forward bases in defense positions along the outer perimeter of the Iron Curtain.

Connection is available also, on an instantaneous basis, with the intercontinental missile bases in the United States, which outnumber but are not so well known as the testing bases at Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg in California.

In a room immediately adjacent to the international switchboard is a larger communications center in continuous touch with American bomber aircraft on unending patrols to Dewline, Bmews and beyond, carrying atomic weapons and ready for instant retaliatory action if America is tacked.

White House On Line

The projected interconnection with Europe's new Ace High system will permit the Pentagon, the White House and the NATO military headquarters at SHAPE in Paris to receive word almost simultaneously of any impending threat or actual attack.

The connecting linkage across the North Atlantic will be either an extension of Dewline from Iceland to northern Scotland, or an extension of Bmews from northern Canada to northern Scotland.

The Dewline extension seems the more probable since an extensions called AN-FRC-39 is already under way across Greenland to Iceland.

The Great northern Telegraph Co. of Denmark has been designated to work in the area between Iceland and Scotland, under direction of International Standard Engineering, Inc., a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph. Both cable and microwave circuits will be used.

Krupp, historic German manufacturer of arms, is building the antennas for the tropospheric forward scatter system used in the design for the Ace High system.

Judge Bluffs Motorists Into Paying Fines

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Magistrate Ernest Jones is a man who believes in taking advantage of an opportunity.

A few weeks ago he had the opportunity to hoax some money into the Pittsburgh city treasury. He did just that—despite the ire of state and city officials who felt he was doing something that just wasn't correct.

Jones was concerned about a huge backlog of unpaid traffic fines. So when several motorists called City Hall and asked if the reason they didn't get their 1960 operators license was because they hadn't paid a traffic fine, Jones saw his chance.

The magistrate knew the delay was caused in the state capitol because of the large number of late applications for licenses.

But he saw that the word got out that motorists with unpaid fines wouldn't get their licenses until the fines were paid.

The state Bureau of Traffic Safety became highly irate. It bawled out the mayor's office. The mayor's office bawled out Jones. But nobody told the motorists.

They kept paying up.

Tuesday Jones admitted the whole thing was a big bluff—but it was too late to do the motorists any good.

Gen. Winfield Scott was the last of the Presidential candidates nominated by the Whig Party. He was nominated for the election of 1852.

Postal Museum Recalls Bumptious Days Of Pony Express

By ARTHUR EDSON

"Wanted——

"Young, skinny, wiry fellows not over 18. Must be expert riders, willing to risk death daily. Orphans preferred. Wages $25 per week."

Their chore was to ride the pony express.

This reminder of our bumptious past came Tuesday at the opening of a museum in the Post Office Department Building.

Here we can see how the mail went through, from the early post roads to the airplane. And now there's the suggestion that the time may come when letters are shot to their destination by missile.

For postal progress, the pony express era is hard to beat.

In 1858 President James Buchanan hailed "a glorious triumph for civilization and the Union." The mail had just been taken by stagecoach from St. Louis to San Francisco jiffy-quick—23 days and 4 hours. You'd never guess it by watching Westerns, but stagecoaches made only five miles an hour.

This glorious triumph was nothing, really. In 1860, when Buchanan was about ready to leave the White House, the news of Lincoln's election was rushed West by pony express in 7 days and 17 hours.

And how long did the pony express last? Only 18 months. It was done in by the railroads.

In the early days the method of paying postage was reversed from today. The receiver picked up the tab, usually 25 cents a letter.

Some early mailing practices almost have been forgotten. Did you know that major rivers were once designated post roads? The famous steamboat, the Robert E. Lee, was a mail boat.

"In Boston," a museum placard says of the early days," the postmaster would put a candle in his window when the mail arrived."

It's hard to get service like that any more.

On March 8 the circle will have charge of the service for the Week of Prayer for Home Missions, with Miss Mary Moxley presenting the program. Mrs. Donald Long asked each one to pray each day between 9 and 10 a.m., for the missionaries whose birthdays are that day.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. S. C. Morris, Eastern Avenue, with Mrs. L. H. Carpenter presiding. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Long, and Mrs. Florian Wilson had devotions, assisted by Mrs. Barbara Rexroad, Mrs. Carpenter, Miss Moxley, Mrs. C. M. Sheets, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. S. N. Former Local Man Dies In Nevada Gas Chamber

A former Cumberland man died in a Nevada gas chamber yesterday for the murder of a moving van driver two years ago.

The man, Earl Lewis Steward, 41, who gave a Baltimore address when arrested in Philadelphia by FBI agents, was convicted of the murder of Thomas Jessen, 56, of Jamaica, Iowa, about two years ago in Elko, Nev.

Three unidentified Nevada state police guards pulled identical switches at 6:07 a. m. (CST), one of them releasing cyanide pills into a "trap" under the gas chamber chair, according to the Associated Press.

Steward, stripped to the waist with a stethoscope taped to his chest, strained hard against the straps binding him to the chair as the deadly fumes enveloped him. He lost consciousness in two minutes.

Eighteen minutes later he was pronounced dead.

Warden Jack Fogliani said he delayed the execution seven minutes in case of a "one million chance of reprieve." In Nevada, however, the governor has no reprieve powers 60 days after a conviction.

Steward's execution was the first in the State of Nevada since 1954.

Steward, who had a criminal record in Cumberland, last being arrested here in 1954, was convicted of robbing and murdering Jessen. He was arrested in Philadelphia after Jessen's body was found in an abandoned moving van near Wells, Nev.

The population of Sweden is about seven million.

Secrets Of Charm

Build A Pleasant Voice

If people pay you to scream, like one television actress I know, go right on screaming.

But if you indulge in the kind of screaming about things in general that brings no rewards, let me help you put a stop to it. No woman blights her charm faster than those who habitually misuse their voices so that everything they say builds up to a harsh, tight shriek!

They have what I call a pressure-cooker voice. It builds up an antagonistic pressure in those around them and in time blows the lid off all their personal charm. If you have ever been told to stop shrieking, or squealing, or "don't get so excited," take heed. Begin a voice check now by listening to yourself and enlisting the aid of your family. They'll tell you — and welcome your interest in self-improvement!

The pressure-cooker voice isn't always the result of a too-high pitch. Many voices with a natural high pitch have a pleasant quality. Regardless of pitch, you can insure a pleasant-sounding voice if you keep your throat relaxed as you speak. That's just another way of saying you should never feel any sense of strain in your throat.

Of course, tenseness, anger, fear or any sudden emotion is always apparent in the voice. But habitual strain should and can be overcome by practice of correct breathing as you speak.

When you breathe deeply and easily your throat is relaxed. If your breath comes in gasps and you keep it tucked somewhere up under your shoulder blades, your throat's in trouble and so are you! Take a few breaths and send them way down to the bottom of the lung, then say slowly, "How far the ocean sends its roar." It will help you learn to talk more slowly at all times while consciously trying to keep your voice evenly pitched. Let the breath flow out as you talk. Just as steam escapes from a jet—steady and sure!

For many more tips on voice and voice tones, read my handy booklet "Your Most Attractive Voice." A copy's yours for 10c and a stamped, return envelope sent to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper.

Kelly Official To Address Club

Arthur A. Verner, vice president of the export division of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will speak on "Foreign Commerce" at the dinner meeting of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church today at 6:30 p. m. in the fellowship hall.

Verner was born in Belfast, Ireland, and as a boy made 15 trans-Atlantic trips with his father, an engineer with the United Fruit Company.

At the beginning of World War II he was stationed in Panama and Chile. A commander in the Navy, he also served with SHAEF headquarters.

Formerly the head of the economics department of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, Verner received a master's degree in business administration from New York University and a doctor's degree in banking from American University.

W.Va. Men Given Sentences In Hunting Deaths

The three fatal shootings that occurred in Hardy County during the December deer hunting season have been disposed of in Hardy County Circuit Court, Moorefield.

Indicted by the grand jury of the February term of court on charges of negligent shooting were Carl Kimble, 25, of Fisher; Jess Martin, of London, Kanawha County, and Albert Conard Miller, 19, of Lost City.

Kimble was charged with the death of Ocie Robert Weatherholz, 22, of Fisher, on Wednesday, December 2, in the Kessel area. A rifle carried by Kimble accidentality was discharged by Kimble as he walked behind Weatherholtz.

The charges against the three men were disposed of in court when they appeared and entered guilty pleas before Judge H. Gus Muntzing.

Miller accidentally shot his uncle, Otis D. Wilkens, 36, while they were hunting Tuesday, December 1, in the Lost City section.

Martin mistook Charles Edward Chadwick, 27, of near Charleston, the victim, for a deer while they were hunting four miles northeast of Lost City.

Judge Muntzing sentenced each of the three men to nine-month terms in the Hardy County Jail and fined them $50.

However, he suspended the jail sentences and placed the three men on parole, with these stipulations:

They shall pay the fine; cost of indictment, not violate any local, state or federal laws, pay the widows $300 for funeral and medical expenses; do no hunting or carry firearms for five years, and report to the court at any time.

The light sentences were passed on recommendations of Lewis Mumma, prosecuting attorney; Barthel Thompson, conservation officer, and the widows and families of Chadwick Wilkens and Weatherholtz.

Kelly Official To Address Club

Arthur A. Verner, vice president of the export division of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will speak on "Foreign Commerce" at the dinner meeting of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church today at 6:30 p. m. in the fellowship hall.

Verner was born in Belfast, Ireland, and as a boy made 15 trans-Atlantic trips with his father, an engineer with the United Fruit Company.

At the beginning of World War II he was stationed in Panama and Chile. A commander in the Navy, he also served with SHAEF headquarters.

Formerly the head of the economics department of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, Verner received a master's degree in business administration from New York University and a doctor's degree in banking from American University.

W.Va. Men Given Sentences In Hunting Deaths

The three fatal shootings that occurred in Hardy County during the December deer hunting season have been disposed of in Hardy County Circuit Court, Moorefield.

Indicted by the grand jury of the February term of court on charges of negligent shooting were Carl Kimble, 25, of Fisher; Jess Martin, of London, Kanawha County, and Albert Conard Miller, 19, of Lost City.

Kimble was charged with the death of Ocie Robert Weatherholz, 22, of Fisher, on Wednesday, December 2, in the Kessel area. A rifle carried by Kimble accidentality was discharged by Kimble as he walked behind Weatherholtz.

The charges against the three men were disposed of in court when they appeared and entered guilty pleas before Judge H. Gus Muntzing.

Miller accidentally shot his uncle, Otis D. Wilkens, 36, while they were hunting Tuesday, December 1, in the Lost City section.

Martin mistook Charles Edward Chadwick, 27, of near Charleston, the victim, for a deer while they were hunting four miles northeast of Lost City.

Judge Muntzing sentenced each of the three men to nine-month terms in the Hardy County Jail and fined them $50.

However, he suspended the jail sentences and placed the three men on parole, with these stipulations:

They shall pay the fine; cost of indictment, not violate any local, state or federal laws, pay the widows $300 for funeral and medical expenses; do no hunting or carry firearms for five years, and report to the court at any time.

The light sentences were passed on recommendations of Lewis Mumma, prosecuting attorney; Barthel Thompson, conservation officer, and the widows and families of Chadwick, Wilkens and Weatherholtz.

Local Lions Club Allots $17,000 For Health Fund

The Cumberland Lions Foundation, as a result of proceeds realized from the Cumberland Sports Car races last year, has set aside more than $17,000 for health and charity organizations in Allegany County.

Chairman of the Lions' committee for the sight conservation program, Glenn Davis, said yesterday that $9,500 was allocated his committee for the sight fund, a continuing and cooperative function with the Allegany County Board of Education and the County Health Department.

This program is designed for pre-school and school-age children who need financial assistance. All expenses incurred for the equipment used by the doctor, glasses, corrective fees and replacement and repair of glasses are paid from this fund by the Lions Club.

Michael Beerman, chairman of the Lions' tonsillectomy program for needy children, said $3,000 was allocated this charity service from the total proceeds.

This program, like sight conservation, is operated through the Board of Education and the Health Department. Three local doctors in the county work hand-in-hand with the setup and are reimbursed by the Lions Club. The State Department of Health contributes to the hospital expense if any is involved.

The fund is used county-wide with the program varying somewhat in Frostburg. There Miners Hospital is paid for expenses by the Lions instead of the doctor.

When the tonsil program first started, Beerman said, the committee was allocated $1,500, but this year he asked for $3,000. That sum is expected to cover a year's work with provisions made in the following year's budget should the total be exceeded.

Other organizations benefiting from the Lions' sponsorship of the Sports Car Races this year and the amounts set aside for them are:

Allegany County League for Crippled Children, $1,000; County United Fund, $1,000; Boy Scouts of America, $700; YMCA, $1,000 (to be used for regular memberships and day camp memberships for needy youths, and Girl Scouts, $1,000 (for the new camp building at Flintstone).

The Lions Foundation's Board of Directors meets each year to determine the organizations to which financial assistance will be given and the amounts to be set aside for each.

There are two permanently supported by the board, those being the sight conservation and tonsillectomy programs. The others are flexible and can be changed from year to year.

The Sports Car Races are the only major fund-raising event sponsored by the Lions Club and its charity funds depend almost solely on the success of the races. Other smaller funds raised, such as sponsorship of the Tulsa Choir, substantiate the various programs.

Annual CUF Meeting Today

Winfield H. Adam, executive director of County United Fund, has announced the agenda for the annual CUF meeting, election of officers and presentation of employe achievement awards today at 7 p. m. at the Central YMCA.

William C. Walsh, president of the big givers' organization which this year raised $345,765 for 31 health, welfare, youth and community services in Allegany and Mineral counties, will preside.

The report of the nominating committee will be given by Robert E. Moore, chairman, who will present slates for the board of directors, executive committee and 1960 officers. Members of the board and the executive committee serve for three years, and the officers for one year.

Woodward D. Pealer, co-chairman of the most successful classified campaign ever staged in this area, will present achievement awards to 111 qualifying employe groups. Presentation of awards to employe groups of the big seven industries will be made by George B. Newman, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, who served as general chairman of the 1959 campaign — also the most successful United drive ever conducted here.

C&P Buildings Sold At Auction In Mt. Savage

The old C&P Railroad buildings in Mt. Savage, consisting of five buildings, were sold at public auction yesterday to Leon Louis Plotkins, Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

James Alfred Avirett, assignee of the mortgage for foreclosure, said Plotkins bought the property on a bid of $53,200. Plotkins was the holder of the mortgages, Avirett said.

The property had been used by the now defunct Ribbon Copies Corporation. All of the old shop buildings were sold except the one in use by the Cumberland Glass Company.

Avirett said the bidding started at $40,000 with three other individuals taking part in the bidding.

The property was used for many years by the C&P Railroad but was idle for some years after the C&P was sold to the Western Maryland Railway. Most of the trackage of the C&P, which ran between Mt. Savage, Frostburg and thence down the Georges Creek valley to Westernport, has been torn up and sold for scrap. The C&P used the B&O Railroad right of way to haul coal into Cumberland.

Will Buy Airliner

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UPI)—The Canadian airline, Quebecair, announced it will purchase an additional F-27 Fairchild propjet airliner this year and may order another six over "the next couple of years."

C&P Buildings Sold At Auction In Mt. Savage

The old C&P Railroad buildings in Mt. Savage, consisting of five buildings, were sold at public auction yesterday to Leon Louis Plotkins, Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

James Alfred Avirett, assignee of the mortgage for foreclosure, said Plotkins bought the property on a bid of $53,200. Plotkins was the holder of the mortgages, Avirett said.

The property had been used by the now defunct Ribbon Copies Corporation. All of the old shop buildings were sold except the one in use by the Cumberland Glass Company.

Avirett said the bidding started at $40,000 with three other individuals taking part in the bidding.

The property was used for many years by the C&P Railroad but was idle for some years after the C&P was sold to the Western Maryland Railway. Most of the trackage of the C&P, which ran between Mt. Savage, Frostburg and thence down the Georges Creek valley to Westernport, has been torn up and sold for scrap. The C&P used the B&O Railroad right of way to haul coal into Cumberland.

Charles Meehan Heads Rotary At Frostburg

Miss Mary Murray Is Guest Speaker

Other officers elected at Monday nights meeting held at Clary Club are Edward Ewald, vice president; Arthur Roe, secretary; Harold Dudley, treasurer, and Fred Morton, Roger Hosbein and Lowell Sowers Jr., directors.

The speaker for the evening was Miss Mary Murray of the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College who spoke on "The Adversities of George Washington." Miss Murray pointed out five periods in Washington's life when misfortune befell him: Great Meadows in 1774 when the French captured Fort Necessity, he surrendered on July 4, 1754; with Braddock near Fort Duquesne (now Pittsburgh) when Braddock's army was defeated; at Valley Forge when a group of officers sought to discredit him; at the Battle of Monmouth when an officer betrayed the Army and during the Revolution in 1780 when Benedict Arnold sold out his country. Despite these troubles Washington went on to become the "Father of His Country," the speaker noted.

Funds Added For FSTC Dorm

Gov. J. Millard Tawes yesterday added a request for $425,000 for a new dormitory for Frostburg State Teachers College in his capital improvements program which went to the General Assembly last night.

The $425,000 had been left out of the governor's original capital improvements list, but the college had asked $900,000 for two dormitories due to the crowded conditions.

The original capital improvements requests by Gov. Tawes submitted to the General Assembly on the opening day of this session totaled $13,516,000.

Other requests added by Gov. Tawes include $37,500 for an airport near Oakland.

Heart Surgery Is Televised

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 22-year-old Garrett County man was reported in excellent condition Wednesday after a delicate heart operation at University Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Olen Beachy of Grantsville was recuperating rapidly and resting comfortably.

The operation, performed by a 15-member surgical team, was witnessed on television by thousands of Marylanders only 55 hours after it was completed Friday night.

Beachy had been afflicted with an interatrial septal defect — a half-dollar size hole between the upper heart chambers. The defect permitted blood lacking oxygen to mix with fresh blood, making Beachy virtually an invalid.

The surgical team used a heart-lung machine to by-pass the heart. Then surgeons cut open the heart and sewed up the defect.

Teachers Colleges Should Be U. Md. Units, Report Says

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A commission suggested Wednesday that the problem of soaring enrollments at the University of Maryland be handled by "moving education out to the people."

To do this, the study group said, State teachers colleges at Towson, Frostburg and Salisbury should first be converted into university centers or branches.

Later new university centers for commuting students could be built in three other areas to serve Frederick and Washington counties, the central Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland.

The recommendations were contained in a report to Gov. Tawes by a 12-member commission headed by Edwin Warfield III, Howard County farmer-publisher.

Trial Period Scheduled For Parking Lot

The City of Cumberland yesterday granted a temporary occupancy permit to C. Paul Roeder to operate a parking lot at 6-10 Baltimore Street.

The permit was issued by C. R. Nuzum, building engineer, for a 60-day trial period following a meeting in City Hall yesterday morning.

Attending were Loraine E. Eisenberg, for the Gustave Eisenberg heirs, owners of the property; Mr. Roeder, who will operate the lot and Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, City Attorney William R. Carscaden, Police Chief B. F. Gaffney and Mr. Nuzum.

During the conference, Mr. Fleming said his department is definitely opposed to left hand turns at the lot, due to its proximity to the Western Maryland Railway crossing.

He said the area is already so congested that further traffic would be intolerable at peak periods.

Mr. Fleming said he pointed out that the city wants all the parking spaces which can be found and that the Police Department will make a full study of the lot's operation during the 60-day trial period.

ty prayed a jury trial at the hearing yesterday and Magistrate Paul W. Barnett set bond in the case at $1,000. Poling was ordered committed to the County Jail in default of bond.

You should know these facts about Compact Cars

by GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

AUTOMOBILE history has been made. A new class of cars has achieved unprecedented public acceptance.

For 8 years, Rambler was the only compact car.

Now every major U. S. car manufacturer offers his version of the compact car.

Because this class of cars is so new—and because so many conflicting claims are being made, there is understandable puzzlement in the minds of many people as to what these compact cars are.

How does each compare in price, in economy, in performance, room, comfort, features?

How does each measure up by the basic yardstick of value—usefulness to the user?

As the originator of the compact car—as the first company to heed motorists' demands for a more economical, less bulky six-passenger car—we know you need facts about compact cars to clarify the confused picture which has arisen because of the many conflicting claims.

That is why we present these facts.

George Romney

What is a compact car?

Webster defines "compact" as "firmly united . . . solid . . . arranged so as to economize space . . ."

A compact car offers big car room and comfort for five or six passengers, without needless bulk. By avoiding excess bulk, a true compact car provides high level economy with performance, maneuverability and driving ease.

CAR TYPES BY OVER-ALL LENGTH

SMALL CARS—145 to 170 inches

FIAT	148.6 in.
METROPOLITAN	149.5
RENAULT	155.6
VOLKSWAGEN	160.2
HILLMAN	162.0

COMPACT CARS—170 to 200 inches

LARK	175.0 in.
RAMBLER AMERICAN	178.3
CORVAIR	180.0
FALCON	181.2
VALIANT	183.7
RAMBLER 6 and V-8	189.5
RAMBLER AMBASSADOR V-8	198.5

BIG OR CONVENTIONAL CARS—200 inches AND UP

THUNDERBIRD	205.3 in.
DART	208.6
PLYMOUTH	209.4
CHEVROLET	210.8
FORD	213.7
OTHER BIG CARS	212.6 to 227.2

In our 10 years of building compact cars we found the necessary room cannot be provided in a vehicle less than about 170 inches long.

How many kinds of compact car?

Everyone realizes that there are major differences between big cars in size, price, quality, comfort and performance, but few are aware that differences between compact cars can be equally varied.

THE THREE TYPES OF COMPACT CARS

Small Compact Cars	All-Round Compact Cars	Luxury Compact Cars
RAMBLER AMERICAN 178.3 in.	RAMBLER 6 and V-8 189.5 in.	RAMBLER AMBASSADOR 198.5 in.

COMPACT CARS

170" ← OVER-ALL LENGTH → 200"

New compact cars on sale are small compacts, like Rambler American—about 175 to 184 inches long.

While some of these small compact cars claim six-passenger room, they lack enough room in important dimensions to ride six big men in comfort.

Optimum because it offers the ideal balance of qualities to provide optimum usefulness to the user.

The ideal balance of big car room, with small car handling ease . . . fine performance, with top economy . . . highest quality, with low price and top resale value . . . modern styling, with easy-to-enter doors.

If you want these Rambler advantages with V-8 performance, but slightly less fuel economy, there is the Rambler Rebel V-8.

AMBASSADOR V-8 . . . Compact Luxury.

For those who want luxury car performance and features—with the extra luxury of compactness, we offer the Ambassador V-8 by Rambler—America's first and best compact luxury car. (Imitations of the Ambassador have recently been announced by our competitors as the first of this type.)

Which is lowest priced?

One small compact car claims to be priced "up to $124 less than other compact cars."

The facts, according to manufacturers' suggested factory delivered prices, show this:

• Rambler American is lowest priced of all U. S. cars—by at least $117 on 2-door sedans, $130 on 4-door sedans, $205 on station wagons.

Facts, not claims, show the Rambler American, with room for five big adults, is lowest-priced by far.

What about economy?

Conflicting claims have now been settled by the first official economy test between the compact cars.

A Rambler American Custom Sedan with overdrive averaged six-and-two-thirds more miles per gallon than any other compact car in the recent Pure Oil Economy Trials, at Daytona Beach. The event was under the strict supervision of NASCAR.

Compare total economy.

Rambler not only saves you money on first cost and gasoline, but also on upkeep and lowest depreciation. Rambler leads in total economy.

Rambler owners—America's happiest.

Impartial surveys show Rambler owners are happier than owners of any other make. They report fewer service troubles. More say they will buy the same make again than owners of any other cars.

The reason is Rambler's Basic Excellence that pioneered lighter, stronger, safer, rattleproof Single-Unit* construction and Deep-Dip* rustproofing.

Rambler's superior quality control.

The Rambler plant produces more complete cars than any other single U. S. plant. With production in one plant, it is much easier to maintain uniform quality control over every process.

Now Rambler production has been expanded again—to three full shifts, six days a week.

But be assured, we will not sacrifice quality for quantity production.

Every Rambler built will be as carefully made and inspected as the Ramblers which have built our reputation in the past.

The recommendations were contained in a report to Gov. Tawes by a 12-member commission headed by Edwin Warfield III, Howard County farmer-publisher.

Local Youth Held In Motor Case

Robert Poling, 16, of 705 North Mechanic Street, yesterday was given a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of unauthorized use of an auto.

State's Attorney James S. Getty prayed a jury trial at the hearing yesterday and Magistrate Paul W. Barnett set bond in the case at $1,000. Poling was ordered committed to the County Jail in default of bond.

Trial Period Scheduled For Parking Lot

The City of Cumberland yesterday granted a temporary occupancy permit to C. Paul Roeder to operate a parking lot at 6-10 Baltimore Street.

The permit was issued by C. R. Nuzum, building engineer, for a 60-day trial period following a meeting in City Hall yesterday morning.

Attending were Loraine E. Eisenberg, for the Gustave Eisenberg heirs, owners of the property; Mr. Roeder, who will operate the lot and Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, City Attorney William R. Carscaden, Police Chief B. F. Gaffney and Mr. Nuzum.

During the conference, Mr. Fleming said his department is definitely opposed to left hand turns at the lot, due to its proximity to the Western Maryland Railway crossing.

He said the area is already so congested that further traffic would be intolerable at peak periods.

Mr. Fleming said he pointed out that the city wants all the parking spaces which can be found and that the Police Department will make a full study of the lot's operation during the 60-day trial period.

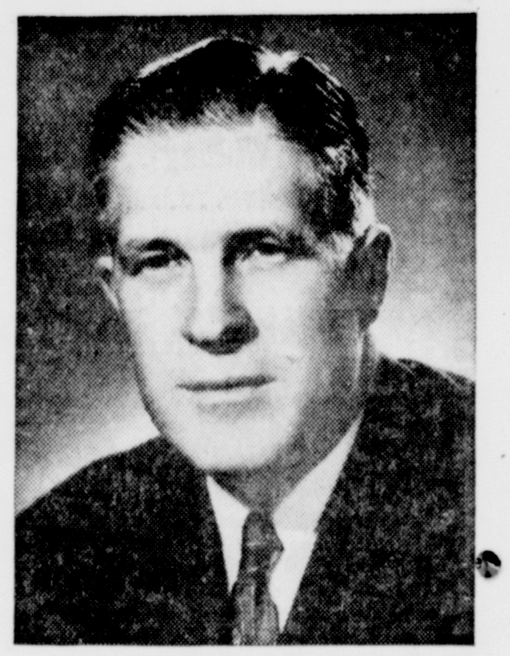
You should know these facts about Compact Cars

by GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation



AUTOMOBILE history has been made. A new class of cars has achieved unprecedented public acceptance.

This new class is the compact car class.

For 8 years, Rambler was the only compact car.

Now every major U. S. car manufacturer offers his version of the compact car.

Because this class of cars is so new—and because so many conflicting claims are being made, there is understandable puzzlement in the minds of many people as to what these compact cars are.

How does each compare in price, in economy, in performance, room, comfort, features?

How does each measure up by the basic yardstick of value—usefulness to the user?

As the originator of the compact car—as the first company to heed motorists' demands for a more economical, less bulky six-passenger car—we know you need facts about compact cars to clarify the confused picture which has arisen because of the many conflicting claims.

That is why we present these facts.

George Romney

What is a compact car?

Webster defines "compact" as "firmly united . . . solid . . . arranged so as to economize space . . ."

A compact car offers big car room and comfort for five or six passengers, without needless bulk. By avoiding excess bulk, a true compact car provides high level economy with performance, maneuverability and driving ease.

CAR TYPES BY OVER-ALL LENGTH

SMALL CARS—145 to 170 inches

FIAT	148.6 in.
METROPOLITAN	149.5
RENAULT	155.6
VOLKSWAGEN	160.2
HILLMAN	162.0

COMPACT CARS—170 to 200 inches

LARK	175.0 in.
RAMBLER AMERICAN	178.3
CORVAIR	180.0
FALCON	181.2
VALIANT	183.7
RAMBLER 6 and V-8	189.5
RAMBLER AMBASSADOR V-8	198.5

BIG OR CONVENTIONAL CARS—200 inches AND UP

THUNDERBIRD	205.3 in.
DART	208.6
PLYMOUTH	209.4
CHEVROLET	210.8
FORD	213.7
OTHER BIG CARS	212.6 to 227.2

In our 10 years of building compact cars we found the necessary room cannot be provided in a vehicle less than about 170 inches long.

How many kinds of compact car?

Everyone realizes that there are major differences between big cars in size, price, quality, comfort and performance, but few are aware that differences between compact cars can be equally varied.

New compact cars on sale are small compacts, like Rambler American—about 175 to 184 inches long.

While some of these small compact cars claim six-passenger room, they lack enough room in important dimensions to ride six big men in comfort.

Optimum because it offers the ideal balance of qualities to provide optimum usefulness to the user.

The ideal balance of big car room, with small car handling ease . . . fine performance, with top economy . . . highest quality, with low price and top resale value . . . modern styling, with easy-to-enter doors.

If you want these Rambler advantages with V-8 performance, but slightly less fuel economy, there is the Rambler Rebel V-8.

AMBASSADOR V-8 . . . Compact Luxury.

For those who want luxury car performance and features—with the extra luxury of compactness, we offer the Ambassador V-8 by Rambler—America's first and best compact luxury car. (Imitations of the Ambassador have recently been announced by our competitors as the first of this type.)

Which is lowest priced?

One small compact car claims to be priced "up to $124 less than other compact cars."

The facts, according to manufacturers' suggested factory delivered prices, show this:

- Rambler American is lowest priced of all U. S. cars—by at least $117 on 2-door sedans, $130 on 4-door sedans, $205 on station wagons.

Facts, not claims, show the Rambler American, with room for five big adults, is lowest-priced by far.

What about economy?

Conflicting claims have now been settled by the first official economy test between the compact cars.

A Rambler American Custom Sedan with overdrive averaged six-and-two-thirds more miles per gallon than any other compact car in the recent Pure Oil Economy Trials, at Daytona Beach. The event was under the strict supervision of NASCAR.

Compare total economy.

Rambler not only saves you money on first cost and gasoline, but also on upkeep and lowest depreciation. Rambler leads in total economy.

Rambler owners—America's happiest.

Impartial surveys show Rambler owners are happier than owners of any other make. They report fewer service troubles. More say they will buy the same make again than owners of any other cars.

The reason is Rambler's Basic Excellence that pioneered lighter, stronger, safer, rattleproof Single-Unit* construction and Deep-Dip* rustproofing.

Rambler's superior quality control.

The Rambler plant produces more complete cars than any other single U. S. plant. With production in one plant, it is much easier to maintain uniform quality control over every process.

Now Rambler production has been expanded again—to three full shifts, six days a week.

But be assured, we will not sacrifice quality for quantity production.

Every Rambler built will be as carefully made and inspected as the Ramblers which have built our reputation in the past.

No 'Redundant Workers' Now

Britons have discovered that automation is not the nemesis of labor they once thought it to be. They, like many Americans, did not accept the idea that machinery could replace human effort without reducing the number of jobs. The English motor car industry has discovered it can happen.

Only a few years ago, protest strikes were called throughout Britain and in Coventry alone 12,000 workers walked off their jobs in bitter denunciation of the machines which were about to "steal" their livelihood. In public debate there were frequent references to "redundant workers" in a major industry which was being transformed from hand work to assembly line techniques.

Uncertainties of that day have given way to the realization that faster, more efficient methods increase the slice of world markets to be devoured. This in turn places still greater demands on industry.

This is what automation has brought to the English automobile industry. More people are now employed in the factories than ever. In 1959 British automobile sales were up almost 50 per cent. Plans for a $500 million expansion program are under way. This expansion alone will provide 11,000 new jobs.

Redundant workers? Not at all, but there could be redundancy in an industry trying to compete in today's markets with yesterday's tools.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Owns The Air

Radio and television, as presently organized in the United States, owe their existence to Herbert Hoover when he was Secretary of Commerce. Experimental stations had been established by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company at Pittsburgh and the General Electric Company at Schenectady. There were about 50,000 poorly developed receiving sets in this country at the time that Herbert Hoover entered the Department of Commerce. The crystal set with earphones intrigued youngsters and many sets were homemade. It was not long before there were 320 radio stations in the country and the number was swiftly increasing. They were unlicensed, unregulated and their interference with each other turned the air into a Tower of Babel.

The Secretary of Commerce was authorized by law to regulate radio which was still mainly a ship-to-shore telegraph system. The first national conference of those engaged in this industry was called by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover on February 27, 1922. On that occasion, Hoover said:

"We have witnessed in the last four or five months one of the most astounding things that have come under my observation of American life. This Department estimates that today over 600,000 persons (one estimate being 1,000,000) possess receiving sets, whereas there were fewer than 50,000 such sets a year ago. We are indeed today upon the threshold of a new means of widespread communication of intelligence that has the most profound importance from the point of view of public education and public welfare. The comparative cheapness . . . of receiving sets . . . bids fair to make them almost universal in the American home."

Further, he said:

"It is therefore primarily a question of broadcasting, and it becomes of primary public interest to say who is to do the broadcasting, under what circumstances, and with what type of material. It is inconceivable that we should allow so great a possibility for service to be drowned in advertising chatter."

Subsequent conferences were called annually and the industry co-operating with the Department of Commerce devised a system of private ownership under public control. In February 1927, Congress passed an act which finally established the public ownership and regulation of the wave channels. These wave channels are now the property of the government of the United States, licensed to private companies for operation under specific conditions.

To clarify the position of the government, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said on March 10, 1924:

". . . I can state emphatically that it would be most unfortunate for the people of this country, to whom broadcasting has become an important incident of life, if its control should come into the hands of any single corporation, individual, or combination.

"It would be in principle the same as though the entire press of the country were so controlled. The effect would be identical whether this control arose under a patent monopoly or under any form of combination or over a wave channel . . ."

While Hoover, in establishing the system which is in operation today, was opposed to censorship and never included such a possibility in any control measure, he did say on November 9, 1925:

"We hear a great deal about the freedom of the air, but there are two parties to freedom of the air, and to freedom of speech for that matter. There is the speechmaker and the listener . . ."

And,

"The ether is a public medium, and its use must be for public benefit. The use of a radio channel is justified only if there is public benefit. The dominant element for consideration in the radio field is, and always will be, the great body of the listening public . . ."

The first commission to regulate radio was appointed by President Coolidge on the recommendation of Hoover. None of them was a politician. The public interest in radio, the public right in radio and television has never been abandoned. It exists today and the instrument for enforcing the public right is the FCC. When a cheap, vulgar exhibitionist uses the television to establish that he is entitled to speak outrageous language and foul descriptions on television, he is violating the public right and he should be put off the air. This is not censorship; it is a declaration of ownership. It is not a question of libel or slander; it is a question of decency and good taste.

God Help Our Defense

Ike's Temper Is Key To A Political Puzzle

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

One of the President's ablest and most loyal supporters on Capitol Hill, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, tries to tell him that the country is worried by the weaknesses of the national defense program. The President turns crimson, then white, with fury, and launches into a volcanic tirade against the presumptuous persons who have dared to suggest that such weaknesses exist. And the same subject triggers the same reflexes again, and yet again, at subsequent Presidential meetings with Congressional leaders and others.

Or at the White House presentation of the new request for foreign aid funds, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn ventures to suggest the country cannot understand skimping our own public works and our own defenses, while we are so generous in our assistance to the public works and defenses of other nations. Once more the President shows the same successive reactions—the quick, hot flash, then the whiteness along the jaw, and then the spate of angry words. Or these same reactions might be caused by a quite ordinary question at a press conference. It has happened twice, indeed, in the last month.

In a man no longer young, who is the object of the Byzantine adulation of the Eisenhower White House, there is nothing abnormal or surprising in this quick testiness, this angry response to any hint of doubt or dissent. But it demands notice, because it is also a significant fact of our current political life. It helps to explain, for instance, why the President's farewell speech before his South American journey, contained at least one flat mis-statement of fact.

Speaking of our nuclear deterrent, the President asserted, with great emphasis and with no qualification whatever, that this "force (was) not subject to elimination by any sudden attack." Made without qualification, that statement is wholly misleading if not plainly untrue.

If the National Intelligence Estimates correctly depict Soviet power, to be sure, the statement is precariously true. But if the estimates are just a little bit wrong, as they have invariably been in the past, the statement is quite false. In the latter case, a surprise immeasurably more terrible than the surprise of Pearl Harbor may well be possible, perhaps already and more probably in a year or so.

On this point, the facts speak for themselves. The brilliant man the President has put in charge of the American deterrent, the U. S. Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has stated under oath that the entire deterrent can be "virtually wiped out" by surprise attack, if the Soviets merely possess 150 operational ICBMs. If the National Estimates are only wrong by a margin of 150 ICBMs, by no means a large number of these weapons, then the error is far from unprecedented. It is also not beyond the limits of normal error in any nation's intelligence estimates.

No one can suppose that Dwight D. Eisenhower would knowingly make a statement to the nation without qualification, while he also knew that the statement's truth depended on such vitally important qualifications.

Yet the most honorable man can unknowingly make an untrue statement. He is too likely to do so, in fact, if he is a President who has never enjoyed digging into the details of problems, who is served and secluded by his staff as though he were an icon, who grows frighteningly angry, too, when his settled opinions are challenged. Thus the President's irritability, which has always existed but has grown noticeably greater, is seen to be a key part of a major puzzle.

There are other parts of the same puzzle. There is the deep displeasure that the President has always visited on overly independent, inconveniently outspoken military leaders. There is the curious contrast, so suggestive of character differences, between the subsequent careers of the military leaders who have left the service under a cloud with Eisenhower and their comrades who have departed in high favor. All members of the former group are now earning their civilian livings with distinguished propriety. Too many of the latter are in profitable, flagrant practice as lobbyists.

There is the further fact that the President never seriously consults, face to face, the men who have direct responsibility for our deterrent, for our missile programs, and for the other most important parts of the defense machine. There is the still further fact that the judgments of these men with direct responsibility have always weighed less heavily, with all Eisenhower-era Secretaries of Defense, than the carefully compromised, politically conscious judgment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff-that body both warped by inter-service rivalries and too full of men responsive to the higher pressure "not to stick your neck out."

Look, for a moment, at these parts of the puzzle. You can then see why the country ought to look, not at the President on a television screen, but at the hard realities of the national situation.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WEATHER FORECASTING — An eminent scientist, working in the quiet of a tower in the Smithsonian Institution, believes he has perfected a system under which he'll be able to forecast the weather for seven years ahead.

The brilliant savant believes he can predict the weather for Washington and 31 other American cities a month at a time until 1967. If the system should prove practical, it will represent the greatest breakthrough in the history of man's efforts to predict the weather.

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, a solar physicist, has been working on his system for 30 years. Now 87 years old, he is confident that he has at last found the key to reliable weather forecasting far into the future.

Briefly, Dr. Abbot believes that all weather on earth is controlled by the heat and activity on the surface of the sun. He came to this conclusion after making a three-decade study of the sun.

As a result of his studies and measurements, Dr. Abbot has concluded that weather goes through a cycle of 273 months, and then repeats itself. All one has to do is to determine what the weather was 22¾ years ago, and wait for it to repeat itself.

Actually, it's more complicated than that, of course. Dr. Abbot has also made studies of man-made interference, such as smoke, groupings of buildings, effects of burgeoning cities, etc.

Abbot not only intends to predict rainfall, but temperatures as well. He does not expect the orthodox weather forecasting scientists to accept his system without question. However, if his predictions are borne out, he says, "my report may create such interest that they will have to study it."

Italian Paper, Friendly To America, Needles U.S. For Missile Failures

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower was really peeved when his chief of U. S. Information George V. Allen—no relation to his golfing partner—stated publicly that U. S. missile failures had hurt American prestige round the world. Ike undertook to deny this at a press conference.

However, a recent issue of the Italian newspaper "Candido," published in Milan, and part of the Rizzoli chain of newspapers and magazines in a country very friendly to the United States, supports Allen, not Ike. A recent series of cartoons, captioned "Missil-USA," gives the United States a none too gentle ribbing over missile failures.

One cartoon shows a school of fish near the bottom of the sea with the caption, "Quick! Go in the cave! The Americans are again aiming for the moon!"

Another cartoon shows a giant American missile heading down into the ocean. Two American officers standing nearby remark, "After all, it is not so bad except for the small difficulty that it always goes in the wrong direction."

Jack And Adlai

Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Jack Kennedy have reached an informal secret understanding to help each other at the Democratic convention.

For six months Stevenson's former campaign aide, Hy Raskin, has been trying to work out a deal between the two. Raskin proposed that Stevenson help Kennedy for President in the early rounds. Then if Kennedy failed to win the nomination, he would throw his support to Stevenson for President. If Kennedy should be the nominee, he would select Stevenson as his Secretary of State, if victorious in November.

On the other hand, if Kennedy failed, then he would agree to run as Stevenson's Vice President.

Raskin finally brought the pair together for a secret huddle just before Stevenson's departure for South America. They did not agree to the cut-and-dried deal Raskin proposed. But Stevenson and Kennedy promised to help each other within limits. As a result, several key Stevenson men are already working quietly for Kennedy in the Wisconsin primary. This is a blow to Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, who counted heavily upon Stevenson's support.

Congressional Bean Soup

Congressional bean soup is the most popular dish served in the House and Senate restaurants. And you can now serve it right in your own home.

The House of Representatives Restaurant has printed the recipe on the back of a current menu, together with a story of how "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois, the famous dictatorial speaker, required that bean soup be served daily in the restaurant.

One day in 1903, noting its absence from the menu, Cannon exploded: "Thunderation! I had my mouth set for bean soup. From now on, hot or cold, rain, snow or shine, I want it on the menu every day!"

Here's the recipe: Cover two pounds of Number 1, white Michigan beans with cold water and soak overnight. Drain and recover with water. Add a smoked ham hock. Simmer slowly about four hours until beans are tender. Add salt and pepper to suit taste. Just before serving, bruise beans with large spoon, enough to cloud.

The Diplomatic Pouch

U. S. diplomats reported that Premier Khrushchev seemed quite annoyed and discouraged at the listless reception he got in India compared with Eisenhower. Khrushchev was so subdued that at one point Prime Minister Nehru asked about his health. Khrushchev snapped that he was fine; why did everyone think he was sick . . . President Eisenhower got a very gloomy briefing just before leaving for Latin America on the prospects of any summit agreement with Russia. Secretary Herter told him there was no sign Premier Khrushchev would retreat an inch at the summit conference. On the contrary, Herter told Ike that Khrushchev would hold off any drastic action until he has a chance to talk to Eisenhower, man-to-man, in the Kremlin when Ike visits Russia in June . . . General de Gaulle has suddenly become mild and mellow now that France has exploded its first atomic bomb. He's convinced that he has taken a big step toward restoring France's glory and grandeur. So he's now ready to settle his quarrel with the Atlantic Pact about an integrated command which he so bitterly opposed only a short time ago. When he gets to Washington to talk with Eisenhower, de Gaulle says he'll settle the argument then and there to show how reasonable he can be . . . Chancellor Adenauer has become obsessed with the idea that President Eisenhower is going to sell the West Germans down the river at a summit conference. He has sent repeated letters to the White House warning it would be disastrous to offer even the slightest concession to the Russians on Berlin. And he has told friends that when he visits Washington next month, he'll tell Eisenhower in the bluntest possible language he will never agree to changing the present status of Berlin. Adenauer has become so adamant about this that his closest advisers are worried the old German warhorse may suffer a stroke.

Headlines And Footnotes

The National Council of Churches had to overcome economic pressure upon its own board members the other day before finally adopting a resolution against the misuse of economic power. Some members balked at proclaiming a moral code for industrial leaders that might offend them and threaten the collection plate . . . Despite suggestions that church contributions might be jeopardized, the council went on record against "corrupt practices in our business society." The showdown vote was 73 for, 16 against and 12 abstentions . . . The AFL-CIO will launch an all-out drive next year to organize farm hands, the largest group of non-union workers in the country. Thed rive will start in the San Joaquin Valley, Calif., where big corporation farmers are already raising money to stop unionization . . . Three Republican Senators have complained to GOP National Chairman Thruston Morton that they can't be re-elected if Secretary Benson remains in the Cabinet. The lament came from Senators Dworshak of Idaho, Martin of Iowa and Schoeppel of Kansas.

Ifs And Ands

By Leslie Gould

The comments of the market experts on the trend after the big January-February slump — a 12.3 per cent loss in values — run something like the story of the politician addressing a farmer audience in Vermont.

The speaker had been going on for about a half hour, when a farmer joined the group and asked the man standing next to him:

"What is he talking about."

To which the man who had been listening to the speech from the start replied:

"He didn't say."

That's the way it is with many of the current appraisals of the market and business.

They don't say.

On business, it says:

"In terms of gross national product, personal income, over-all industrial production and corporate profits, 1960 seems destined to set new highs well above those of 1959."

A little further on, there is this:

"As a matter of fact, it would be healthier if business were not too exuberant since high level prosperity can be more surely maintained under conditions of steady progress than under those of periodic booms."

The report thinks the first six months is "in the bag," and a switch from the positive to the negative in the fourth quarter will only occur if there is a "decided diminution in the confidence factor."

Then, the report states:

"In other words, as long as effective consumer demand remains strong, as long as business expectations are high, the present cycle of expansion seems more likely to continue than to reverse itself."

But as the report just before that said:

"It is unfortunately impossible to project wi echtanritjwetaoine to project with certainty the exact shape of the fourth quarter."

On the market, the report is even more vague, but not so Murray Simons, the printer, who puts together the stock tables each day and who also is an investor.

"This is it."

When someone asked:

"This is what?"

Murray came back:

"The market is going to turn."

There were no ifs, ands or buts. The market did turn.

Moderation Can Help Avoid Osteoarthritis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

"Can anything be done to avoid arthritis?" This question was asked by a 40-year-old woman as she sat in my office holding three of her children. She braced herself for the answer as though she were about to receive a death sentence. "My mother was crippled with arthritis and now I am beginning to develop pains in the knobs on my fingers. Frankly, I'm concerned."

A few questions later, I discovered that her mother's arthritis was confined to the nodes on the fingers during middlife, and spread to the back and knees when she was older. It was a typical story of two types of osteoarthritis.

My patient was going through the first type—Heberden's nodes. Small tender nodules were developing over the tops of the joints, nearest the finger nails. The painful stage lasts about 6 to 18 months. The nodes are soft at first but harden after pain subsides and remain thereafter as telltale evidence of the disease.

There are no remedies except aspirin to relieve distress. Discomfort is aggravated by motion and dampness and is relieved by warmth and rest. The cause is not known but Heberden's nodes is a disorder that runs in families.

The mother of this woman suffered from a different type of arthritis involving back and knees. This form is neither hereditary nor serious and develops from years of wear and tear—a sort of penalty for living to a ripe old age. It is worst when getting out of bed or arising from a chair. Aching comes and goes and responds to heat, massage, diathermy, the salicylates, and steroids.

Less wear and tear will discourage osteoarthritis. This means lessening the work of the joints that support the weight of the body. My patient was 40 pounds overweight, which might affect her knees and back in another 20 years. She loved to work hard in the home and garden. These activities strain the joints, especially when the person is fatigued and exhausted. She should get along well by adhering to a reducing diet, avoiding fatigue, practicing moderation in all things, and following the simple rules of health.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflets on Heberden's nodes and osteoarthritis if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

INFANT BREATHING RATE

Yes. The newborn's respiratory rate is 44 in contrast to adults' 18.

When the National Rifle Association succeeds, I'll be happy to change my opinion. Meanwhile, take your pick. The successful use of color depends mainly on the color of the local background.

Try And Stop Me

Jack Gleason and Toots Shor, two famous gentlemen who tip the scales at about 550 pounds between them, once got into a long hassle over which one was the faster runner. Finally, egged on by overjoyed bystanders, they decided on a race around the block. Gleason was to run east to Fifth Avenue; Shor west to Sixth Avenue, and the one who got back to the starting point first was to win the title of "The World's Greatest Overweight Champion."

Gleason cagily hung back until Shor waddled out of sight toward Sixth Avenue, then climbed into a taxi, rode in comfort around the block, and waited for Shor to come panting home. The exhausted Shor was mortified, but conceded defeat, and treated everybody to drinks on the house.

Fully 15 minutes later, however, he suddenly realized he had been tricked. "Gleason," he roared, "you are a four-flusher, a crumb bum, and a creep. How could you have run around the block? YOU NEVER PASSED ME!"

No 'Redundant Workers' Now

Britons have discovered that automation is not the nemesis of labor they once thought it to be. They, like many Americans, did not accept the idea that machinery could replace human effort without reducing the number of jobs. The English motor car industry has discovered it can happen.

Only a few years ago, protest strikes were called throughout Britain and in Coventry alone 12,000 workers walked off their jobs in bitter denunciation of the machines which were about to "steal" their livelihood. In public debate there were frequent references to "redundant workers" in a major industry which was being transformed from hand work to assembly line techniques.

Uncertainties of that day have given way to the realization that faster, more efficient methods increase the slice of world markets to be devoured. This in turn places still greater demands on industry.

This is what automation has brought to the English automobile industry. More people are now employed in the factories than ever. In 1959 British automobile sales were up almost 50 per cent. Plans for a $500 million expansion program are under way. This expansion alone will provide 11,000 new jobs.

Redundant workers? Not at all, but there could be redundancy in an industry trying to compete in today's markets with yesterday's tools.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Owns The Air

Radio and television, as presently organized in the United States, owe their existence to Herbert Hoover when he was Secretary of Commerce. Experimental stations had been established by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company at Pittsburgh and the General Electric Company at Schenectady. There were about 50,000 poorly developed receiving sets in this country at the time that Herbert Hoover entered the Department of Commerce. The crystal set with earphones intrigued youngsters and many sets were homemade. It was not long before there were 320 radio stations in the country and the number was swiftly increasing. They were unlicensed, unregulated and their interference with each other turned the air into a Tower of Babel.

The Secretary of Commerce was authorized by law to regulate radio which was still mainly a ship-to-shore telegraph system. The first national conference of those engaged in this industry was called by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover on February 27, 1922. On that occasion, Hoover said:

"We have witnessed in the last four or five months one of the most astounding things that have come under my observation of American life. This Department estimates that today over 600,000 persons (one estimate being 1,000,000) possess receiving sets, whereas there were fewer than 50,000 such sets a year ago. We are indeed today upon the threshold of a new means of widespread communication of intelligence that has the most profound importance from the point of view of public education and public welfare. The comparative cheapness . . . of receiving sets . . . bids fair to make them almost universal in the American home."

Further, he said:

"It is therefore primarily a question of broadcasting, and it becomes of primary public interest to say who is to do the broadcasting, under what circumstances, and with what type of material. It is inconceivable that we should allow so great a possibility for service to be drowned in advertising chatter."

Subsequent conferences were called annually and the industry co-operating with the Department of Commerce devised a system of private ownership under public control. In February 1927, Congress passed an act which finally established the public ownership and regulation of the wave channels. These wave channels are now the property of the government of the United States, licensed to private companies for operation under specific conditions.

To clarify the position of the government, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said on March 10, 1924:

". . . I can state emphatically that it would be most unfortunate for the people of this country, to whom broadcasting has become an important incident of life, if its control should come into the hands of any single corporation, individual, or combination.

"It would be in principle the same as though the entire press of the country were so controlled. The effect would be identical whether this control arose under a patent monopoly or under any form of combination or over a wave channel . . ."

While Hoover, in establishing the system which is in operation today, was opposed to censorship and never included such a possibility in any control measure, he did say on November 9, 1925:

"We hear a great deal about the freedom of the air, but there are two parties to freedom of the air, and to freedom of speech for that matter. There is the speechmaker and the listener . . ."

And,

"The ether is a public medium, and its use must be for public benefit. The use of a radio channel is justified only if there is public benefit. The dominant element for consideration in the radio field is, and always will be, the great body of the listening public . . ."

The first commission to regulate radio was appointed by President Coolidge on the recommendation of Hoover. None of them was a politician. The public interest in radio, the public right in radio and television has never been abandoned. It exists today and the instrument for enforcing the public right is the FCC. When a cheap, vulgar exhibitionist uses the television to establish that he is entitled to speak outrageous language and foul descriptions on television, he is violating the public right and he should be put off the air. This is not censorship; it is a declaration of ownership. It is not a question of libel or slander; it is a question of decency and good taste.

God Help Our Defense

Ike's Temper Is Key To A Political Puzzle

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

One of the President's ablest and most loyal supporters on Capitol Hill, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, tries to tell him that the country is worried by the weaknesses of the national defense program. The President turns crimson, then white, with fury, and launches into a volcanic tirade against the presumptuous persons who have dared to suggest that such weaknesses exist. And the same subject triggers the same reflexes again, and yet again, at subsequent Presidential meetings with Congressional leaders and others.

Or at the White House presentation of the new request for foreign aid funds, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn ventures to suggest the country cannot understand skimping our own public works and our own defenses, while we are so generous in our assistance to the public works and defenses of other nations. Once more the President shows the same successive reactions—the quick, hot flash, then the whiteness along the jaw, and then the spate of angry words. Or these same reactions might be caused by a quite ordinary question at a press conference. It has happened twice, indeed, in the last month.

In a man no longer young, who is the object of the Byzantine adulation of the Eisenhower White House, there is nothing abnormal or surprising in this quick testiness, this angry response to any hint of doubt or dissent. But it demands notice, because it is also a significant fact of our current political life. It helps to explain, for instance, why the President's farewell speech before his South American journey, contained at least one flat mis-statement of fact.

Speaking of our nuclear deterrent, the President asserted, with great emphasis and with no qualification whatever, that this "force (was) not subject to elimination by any sudden attack." Made without qualification, that statement is wholly misleading if not plainly untrue.

If the National Intelligence Estimates correctly depict Soviet power, to be sure, the statement is precariously true. But if the estimates are just a little bit wrong, as they have invariably been in the past, the statement is quite false. In the latter case, a surprise immeasurably more terrible than the surprise of Pearl Harbor may well be possible, perhaps already and more probably in a year or so.

On this point, the facts speak for themselves. The brilliant man the President has put in charge of the American deterrent, the U. S. Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has stated under oath that the entire deterrent can be "virtually wiped out" by surprise attack, if the Soviets merely possess 150 operational ICBMs. If the National Estimates are only wrong by a margin of 150 ICBMs, by no means a large number of these weapons, then the error is far from unprecedented. It is also not beyond the limits of normal error in any nation's intelligence estimates.

No one can suppose that Dwight D. Eisenhower would knowingly make a statement to the nation without qualification, while he also knew that the statement's truth depended on such vitally important qualifications.

Yet the most honorable man can unknowingly make an untrue statement. He is too likely to do so, in fact, if he is a President who has never enjoyed digging into the details of problems, who is served and secluded by his staff as though he were an icon, who grows frighteningly angry, too, when his settled opinions are challenged. Thus the President's irritability, which has always existed but has grown noticeably greater, is seen to be a key part of a major puzzle.

There are other parts of the same puzzle. There is the deep displeasure that the President has always visited on overly independent, inconveniently outspoken military leaders. There is the curious contrast, so suggestive of character differences, between the subsequent careers of the military leaders who have left the service under a cloud with Eisenhower and their comrades who have departed in high favor. All members of the former group are now earning their civilian livings with distinguished propriety. Too many of the latter are in profitable, flagrant practice as lobbyists.

There is the further fact that the President never seriously consults, face to face, the men who have direct responsibility for our deterrent, for our missile programs, and for the other most important parts of the defense machine. There is the still further fact that the judgments of these men with direct responsibility have always weighed less heavily, with all Eisenhower-era Secretaries of Defense, than the carefully compromised, politically conscious judgment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff-that body both warped by inter-service rivalries and too full of men responsive to the higher pressure "not to stick your neck out."

Look, for a moment, at these parts of the puzzle. You can then see why the country ought to look, not at the President on a television screen, but at the hard realities of the national situation.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WEATHER FORECASTING — An eminent scientist, working in the quiet of a tower in the Smithsonian Institution, believes he has perfected a system under which he'll be able to forecast the weather for seven years ahead.

The brilliant savant believes he can predict the weather for Washington and 31 other American cities a month at a time until 1967. If the system should prove practical, it will represent the greatest breakthrough in the history of man's efforts to predict the weather.

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, a solar physicist, has been working on his system for 30 years. Now 87 years old, he is confident that he has at last found the key to reliable weather forecasting far into the future.

Briefly, Dr. Abbot believes that all weather on earth is controlled by the heat and activity on the surface of the sun. He came to this conclusion after making a three-decade study of the sun.

As a result of his studies and measurements, Dr. Abbot has concluded that weather goes through a cycle of 273 months, and then repeats itself. All one has to do is to determine what the weather was 22¾ years ago, and wait for it to repeat itself.

Actually, it's more complicated than that, of course. Dr. Abbot has also made studies of man-made interference, such as smoke, groupings of buildings, effects of burgeoning cities, etc.

Abbot not only intends to predict rainfall, but temperatures as well. He does not expect the orthodox weather forecasting scientists to accept his system without question. However, if his predictions are borne out, he says, "my report may create such interest that they will have to study it."

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower was really peeved when his chief of U. S. Information George V. Allen—no relation to his golfing partner—stated publicly that U. S. missile failures had hurt American prestige round the world. Ike undertook to deny this at a press conference.

However, a recent issue of the Italian newspaper "Candido," published in Milan, and part of the Rizzoli chain of newspapers and magazines in a country very friendly to the United States, supports Allen, not Ike. A recent series of cartoons, captioned "Missil-USA," gives the United States a none too gentle ribbing over missile failures.

One cartoon shows a school of fish near the bottom of the sea with the caption, "Quick! Go in the cave! The Americans are again aiming for the moon!"

Another cartoon shows a giant American missile heading down into the ocean. Two American officers standing nearby remark, "After all, it is not so bad except for the small difficulty that it always goes in the wrong direction."

Jack And Adlai

For six months Stevenson's former campaign aide, Hy Raskin, has been trying to work out a deal between the two. Raskin proposed that Stevenson help Kennedy for President in the early rounds. Then if Kennedy failed to win the nomination, he would throw his support to Stevenson for President. If Kennedy should be the nominee, he would select Stevenson as his Secretary of State, if victorious in November.

On the other hand, if Kennedy failed, then he would agree to run as Stevenson's Vice President.

Raskin finally brought the pair together for a secret huddle just before Stevenson's departure for South America. They did not agree to the cut-and-dried deal Raskin proposed. But Stevenson and Kennedy promised to help each other within limits. As a result, several key Stevenson men are already working quietly for Kennedy in the Wisconsin primary. This is a blow to Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, who counted heavily upon Stevenson's support.

Congressional Bean Soup

Congressional bean soup is the most popular dish served in the House and Senate restaurants. And you can now serve it right in your own home.

The House of Representatives Restaurant has printed the recipe on the back of a current menu, together with a story of how "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois, the famous dictatorial speaker, required that bean soup be served daily in the restaurant.

One day in 1904, noting its absence from the menu, Cannon exploded: "Thunderation! I had my mouth set for bean soup. From now on, hot or cold, rain, snow or shine, I want it on the menu every day!"

Here's the recipe: Cover two pounds of Number 1, white Michigan beans with cold water and soak overnight. Drain and recover with water. Add a smoked ham hock. Simmer slowly about four hours until beans are tender. Add salt and pepper to suit taste. Just before serving, bruise beans with large spoon, enough to cloud.

The Diplomatic Pouch

U. S. diplomats reported that Premier Khrushchev seemed quite annoyed and discouraged at the listless reception he got in India compared with Eisenhower. Khrushchev was so subdued that at one point Prime Minister Nehru asked about his health. Khrushchev snapped that he was fine; why did everyone think he was sick . . . President Eisenhower got a very gloomy briefing just before leaving for Latin America on the prospects of any summit agreement with Russia. Secretary Herter told him there was no sign Premier Khrushchev would retreat an inch at the summit conference. On the contrary, Herter told Ike that Khrushchev would hold off any drastic action until he has a chance to talk to Eisenhower, man-to-man, in the Kremlin when Ike visits Russia in June . . . General de Gaulle has suddenly become mild and mellow now that France has exploded its first atomic bomb. He's convinced that he has taken a big step toward restoring France's glory and grandeur. So he's now ready to settle his quarrel with the Atlantic Pact about an integrated command which he so bitterly opposed only a short time ago. When he gets to Washington to talk with Eisenhower, de Gaulle says he'll settle the argument then and there to show how reasonable he can be . . . Chancellor Adenauer has become obsessed with the idea that President Eisenhower is going to sell the West Germans down the river at a summit conference. He has sent repeated letters to the White House warning it would be disastrous to offer even the slightest concession to the Russians on Berlin. And he has told friends that when he visits Washington next month, he'll tell Eisenhower in the bluntest possible language he will never agree to changing the present status of Berlin. Adenauer has become so adamant about this that his closest advisers are worried the old German warhorse may suffer a stroke.

Headlines And Footnotes

The National Council of Churches had to overcome economic pressure upon its own board members the other day before finally adopting a resolution against the misuse of economic power. Some members balked at proclaiming a moral code for industrial leaders that might offend them and threaten the collection plate . . . Despite suggestions that church contributions might be jeopardized, the council went on record against "corrupt practices in our business society." The showdown vote was 73 for, 16 against and 12 abstentions . . . The AFL-CIO will launch an all-out drive next year to organize farm hands, the largest group of non-union workers in the country. Thed rive will start in the San Joaquin Valley, Calif., where big corporation farmers are already raising money to stop unionization . . . Three Republican Senators have complained to GOP National Chairman Thruston Morton that they can't be re-elected if Secretary Benson remains in the Cabinet. The lament came from Senators Dworshak of Idaho, Martin of Iowa and Schoeppel of Kansas.

Ifs And Ands

By Leslie Gould

The comments of the market experts on the trend after the big January-February slump — a 12.3 per cent loss in values — run something like the story of the politician addressing a farmer audience in Vermont.

The speaker had been going on for about a half hour, when a farmer joined the group and asked the man standing next to him:

"What is he talking about."

To which the man who had been listening to the speech from the start replied:

"He didn't say."

That's the way it is with many of the current appraisals of the market and business.

They don't say.

On business, it says:

"In terms of gross national product, personal income, over-all industrial production and corporate profits, 1960 seems destined to set new highs well above those of 1959."

A little further on, there is this:

"As a matter of fact, it would be healthier if business were not too exuberant since high level prosperity can be more surely maintained under conditions of steady progress than under those of periodic booms."

The report thinks the first six months is "in the bag," and a switch from the positive to the negative in the fourth quarter will only occur if there is a "decided diminution in the confidence factor."

Then, the report states:

"In other words, as long as effective consumer demand remains strong, as long as business expectations are high, the present cycle of expansion seems more likely to continue than to reverse itself."

But as the report just before that said:

"It is unfortunately impossible to project wi echtamritjwetaoine to project with certainty the exact shape of the fourth quarter."

On the market, the report is even more vague, but not so Murray Simons, the printer, who puts together the stock tables each day and who also is an investor.

"This is it."

When someone asked:

"This is what?"

Murray came back:

"The market is going to turn."

There were no ifs, ands or buts. The market did turn.

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

"Can anything be done to avoid arthritis?" This question was asked by a 40-year-old woman as she sat in my office holding three of her children. She braced herself for the answer as though she were about to receive a death sentence. "My mother was crippled with arthritis and now I am beginning to develop pains in the knobs on my fingers. Frankly, I'm concerned."

A few questions later, I discovered that her mother's arthritis was confined to the nodes on the fingers during middlife, and spread to the back and knees when she was older. It was a typical story of two types of osteoarthritis.

My patient was going through the first type—Heberden's nodes. Small tender nodules were developing over the tops of the joints, nearest the finger nails. The painful stage lasts about 6 to 18 months. The nodes are soft at first but harden after pain subsides and remain thereafter as telltale evidence of the disease.

There are no remedies except aspirin to relieve distress. Discomfort is aggravated by motion and dampness and is relieved by warmth and rest. The cause is not known but Heberden's nodes is a disorder that runs in families.

The mother of this woman suffered from a different type of arthritis involving back and knees. This form is neither hereditary nor serious and develops from years of wear and tear—a sort of penalty for living to a ripe old age. It is worst when getting out of bed or arising from a chair. Aching comes and goes and responds to heat, massage, diathermy, the salicylates, and steroids.

Less wear and tear will discourage osteoarthritis. This means lessening the work of the joints that support the weight of the body. My patient was 40 pounds overweight, which might affect her knees and back in another 20 years. She loved to work hard in the home and garden. These activities strain the joints, especially when the person is fatigued and exhausted. She should get along well by adhering to a reducing diet, avoiding fatigue, practicing moderation in all things, and following the simple rules of health.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflets on Heberden's nodes and osteoarthritis if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

INFANT BREATHING RATE

Yes. The newborn's respiratory rate is 44 in contrast to adults' 18.

RED FOR HUNTERS

When the National Rifle Association succeeds, I'll be happy to change my opinion. Meanwhile, take your pick. The successful use of color depends mainly on the color of the local background.

Alco Handed First Defeat In New Gym

By TED TROXELL

An aggressive North Hagerstown High School quint tripped up Allegany by a 55-46 score last night at Campobello, and in so doing handed the Campers their first loss in 10 starts in their new gymnasium.

These same Hubs will return to Cumberland next Friday to meet the Campers in the Class A semi-finals of the District One tournament being staged at the Allegany court. Coach Mel Henry's team beat Allegany 47-36 early in the season at Hagerstown, and last night's win gave them a sweep of the regular season series.

The Campers, who have been outrebounding most of their opponents this season, were beaten under the boards last night, and their man-for-man defense couldn't contain the hustling Hub cagers, who picked up a lot of their points on driving layups.

Never Regain Lead

Allegany held the lead for most of the first period, but a field goal by Tom Hawkins on the drive, gave the visitors a 10-9 lead as the quarter ended. The Campers came back to tie it up twice, at 15 and 17-all, but never were able to regain the lead.

The issue was still in doubt, however, until the final frame when the Hubs, sparked by Jimmy Riser and Kenny Ridenour who entered the game as a substitute in the preceding quarter, pulled away to an advantage which at one stage reached 14 points.

Ridenour opened the fourth quarter scoring with a jump shot to stretch North High's lead to six points (41-35), but Mervin Pope countered with a jumper for the Campers. A field goal and free throw by Ridenour and fielder and pair of foul conversions by Riser gave the Hubs a 48-37 edge before Wayne Shook's set shot broke the point drought for Allegany with less than three minutes to go.

Hubs Make 21-63

North Hagerstown hit on five of ten attempts from the floor in the decisive fourth period and wound up with a 21-63 mark for the evening. The Campers whose only real productive quarter was the second when they canned eight of 13 field goal tries, made 18 of 51 overall, good for a .353 percentage.

Bob O'Brien took scoring honors for the Hub City five with 14 points, and also turned in a commendable performance in the rebounding department. Riser collected 13 tallies for North High.

Pope also racked up 14 to lead the Campers in scoring, and was followed by Bob Gaffney with 12, and Shook, 10.

The Hubs closed out their regular season last night with a 13-7 mark, while the Campers, who wind up the campaign Friday at Campobello when they face the formidable LaSalle Explorers, are now 14-6.

Beall Cagers Trip Fort Ashby 54-53 On McLuckie's Goal

FORT ASHBY, W. Va. — Bill McLuckie broke a 51-51 tie with a three-point play in the final seconds last night as Beall High's Mountaineers edged Fort Ashby, 54-53, in a Potomac Valley Conference game here.

Unbeaten Pioneers Cop 21 In Row

End Regular Slate; Maphis Tallies 26, Has 629 For Season

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. — Unbeaten Romney High's Pioneers made it 21 victories in a row and closed their regular season without a blemish on their record here last night, defeating Clarksburg's Roosevelt-Wilson High's cagers, 87-64.

Bill Maphis, high scoring forward for the Romney quint, banged in 26 points to close out his regular season play with 629 points in 20 games, a 31.4 average.

Romney hopped in front 12-8 in the first quarter and was never in trouble. A blistering third period in which the Pioneers scored 32 points put the visitors ahead 63-36 at the close of the third quarter and Coach Clyde Green's charges coasted from there.

New TV-Radio Baseball Pact Is Announced

NBC Gets Rights For $20,000,000

BELLEAIRE, Fla. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Wednesday announced a new, 20-million-dollar deal for television-radio rights for the World Series and All Star games.

The agreement, extending a present pact with the National Broadcasting Co. and the sponsor (Gillette) for five years through 1966, represents a yearly increase of $500,000 and also includes a provision for inclusion of the Continental League, the proposed third major league.

The old agreement, signed in 1956 and scheduled to expire at the end of the 1961 season, paid 3¼ million dollars a year. Sixty per cent of that went to the players pension fund, with the other 40 per cent divided among the 16 club owners.

Under the new terms, the players will receive an additional $250,000 this season and after the 1961 World Series. They also will receive an additional $500,000 for each of the next five years.

Total payments for the radio-TV rights will amount to 3¾ million dollars a year.

The 60-40 player-owner split will be continued.

NBC also purchased an option covering any second All-Star game played through 1966 at a cost of $250,000. That is the same price paid for last season's inaugural second All-Star game and this season's repeat All-Star performance.

Under the new extension, the commissioner has the right to renegotiate or cancel if a third major league becomes eligible for the World Series after at least three years of operation as a major league.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The welterweight fight between Florentino Fernandez and Ralph Dupas, scheduled here for March 2, has been cancelled, promoter Chris Dundee said Wednesday. Dundee said Dupas was ill with a virus infection.

Del. Kelley Hits Method Of Moving Racing Dates

Says Bruce Livie Is Bureaucrat In Heading Commission

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — "Can a bureaucrat at his will say that you can't do this or that?" questioned Del. Kelley (R-Allegany) Wednesday in a blast at announced transfer of Cumberland's horse racing dates to Timonium.

"Does that mean Western Maryland people, if they want to see a horse race, must travel? I wonder if the dates belong to the people of Western Maryland, the State or a group of individuals who can take them.

"The Legislature has allocated them to Western Maryland. I think the whole thing needs investigation."

Kelley's speech on the floor of the House of Delegates came after he had inquired of the Attorney General's office of the legality of the transfer announced Tuesday by R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Kelley said he was advised informally of an attorney general's opinion in 1957 that the commission had discretion to transfer dates from one track to another only "if a true emergency exists."

"Where does the emergency exist?" asked Kelley.

Last year, he recalled, the commission moved Cumberland's 12 days to Hagerstown a couple of days before the meeting was scheduled to start. The "emergency" was reported to be a shortage of horses.

"Can the management of the Cumberland track say at this early date that they can't get horses in August?" Kelley demanded.

The Cumberland meeting at Timonium is scheduled for Aug. 15-27.

Joseph Kaufman, special assistant attorney general to the Racing Commission, said he had not been consulted about the legality of the move. It was his opinion in 1957 that cited the "true emergency" being necessary for a transfer.

Although he didn't mention Livie by name, Kelley obviously referred to the chairman in saying he "was a headache for somebody upstairs."

The delegate recalled that the racing commission had in preparation a bill for this session to give it blanket authority to transfer racing dates. At the time, Livie was talking about transferring the days of Cumberland and Bel Air to Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel.

Livie said the bill would not be introduced after he had a conference with Gov. Tawes.

"Now here comes another matter," said Kelley of the Cumberland to Timonium move.

Alco Handed First Defeat In New Gym

By TED TROXELL

An aggressive North Hagerstown High School quint tripped up Allegany by a 55-46 score last night at Campobello, and in so doing handed the Campers their first loss in 10 starts in their new gymnasium.

These same Hubs will return to Cumberland next Friday to meet the Campers in the Class A semi-finals of the District One tournament being staged at the Allegany court. Coach Mel Henry's team beat Allegany 47-38 early in the season at Hagerstown, and last night's win gave them a sweep of the regular season series.

The Campers, who have been outrebounding most of their opponents this season, were beaten under the backboards last night as they couldn't contain the hustling Hub cagers, who picked up a lot of their points on driving layups.

Never Regain Lead

Allegany held the lead for most of the first period, but a field goal by Tom Hawkins, on the drive, gave the visitors a 10-9 lead as the quarter ended. The Campers came back to tie it up twice, at 15 and 17-all, but never were able to regain the lead.

The issue was still in doubt, however, until the final frame when the Hubs, sparked by Jimmy Riser and Kenny Ridenour, who entered the game as a substitute in the preceding quarter, pulled away to an advantage which at one stage reached 14 points.

Rideneur opened the fourth quarter scoring with a jump shot to stretch North High's lead to six points (41-35), but Mervin Pope countered with a jumper for the Campers. A field goal and free throw by Rideneur and fielder and pair of foul conversions by Riser gave the Hubs a 48-37 edge before Wayne Shook's set shot broke the point drought for Allegany with less than three minutes to go.

Hubs Make 21-63

North Hagerstown hit on five of ten attempts from the floor in the decisive fourth period and wound up with a 21-63 mark for the evening. The Campers, whose only real productive quarter was the second when they canned eight of 13 field goal tries, made 18 of 51 overall, good for a .353 percentage.

Bob O'Brien took scoring honors for the Hub City five with 14 points, and also turned in a commendable performance in the rebounding department. Riser collected 13 tallies for North High.

Pope also racked up 14 to lead the Campers in scoring, and was followed by Bob Gaffney with 12 and Shook 10.

The Hubs closed out their regular season last night with a 15-7 mark, while the Campers, who wind up the campaign Friday at Campobello when they face the formidable LaSalle Explorers, are now 14-6.

Northern Meets Southern Tonight At Accident

Northern High's Huskies will play host to Southern High's rampaging Highlanders tonight at 8 o'clock in a basketball game rescheduled from last Saturday because of bad weather.

Southern (14-3) defeated Northern (4-11) at Oakland earlier in the season, 80-51. The unofficial Garrett County championship will be at stake in tonight's game.

The Bruce High-Northern contest at Accident which was to be played Monday after being postponed from last December because of bad weather was again called off because of the weather and probably will be cancelled. Northern officials said last night.

City Rec Quints Resume Playoffs At Allegany Gym

At 7 p.m., Diamond Bowling will play the Dunlop Dunkers and a win for the latter will end the series in two straight games. Dunlop's won the opener Tuesday night, 41-39. If Diamond wins tonight a third game will be necessary next week.

At 8 p.m., Ballard's Cleaners and Jerry's Beauty Salon will tangle in the second game of their best-of-three series in the Men's League. Ballard's won by the score of 44-38 in Tuesday's opener. If Ballard's wins tonight they'll sweep the series in two straight but a victory for Jerry's would require the staging of a "rubber" game next week.

Unbeaten Pioneers Cop 21 In Row

End Regular Slate; Maphis Tallies 26, Has 629 For Season

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. — Unbeaten Romney High's Pioneers made it 21 victories in a row and closed their regular season without a blemish on their record here last night, defeating Clarksburg's Roosevelt-Wilson High's cagers, 87-64.

Bill Maphis, high scoring forward for the Romney quint, banged in 26 points to close out his regular season play with 629 points in 20 games, a 31.4 average.

Romney hopped in front 12-8 in the first quarter and was never in trouble. A blistering third period in which the Pioneers scored 32 points put the visitors ahead 63-36 at the close of the third quarter and Coach Clyde Green's charges coasted from there.

The Potomac Valley Conference champions thus became the first tri-state area quint to finish their regular season undefeated. Romney, however, still has the West Virginia playoffs.

High scorer for Roosevelt-Wilson High was Beninocos with 12 points. Crouso, Whitney and Mills each tallied 11 for the losers. The lineups:

New TV-Radio Baseball Pact Is Announced

NBC Gets Rights For $20,000,000

BELLEAIRE, Fla. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Wednesday announced a new, 20-million-dollar deal for television-radio rights for the World Series and All Star games.

The agreement, extending a present pact with the National Broadcasting Co. and the sponsor (Gillette) for five years through 1966, represents a yearly increase of $500,000 and also includes a provision for inclusion of the Continental League, the proposed third major league.

The old agreement, signed in 1956 and scheduled to expire at the end of the 1961 season, paid 3¼ million dollars a year. Sixty per cent of that went to the players pension fund with the other 40 per cent divided among the 16 club owners.

Under the new terms, the players will receive an additional $250,000 this season and after the 1961 World Series. They also will receive an additional $500,000 for each of the next five years.

Total payments for the radio-TV rights will amount to 3¾ million dollars a year.

The 60-40 player-owner split will be continued.

NBC also purchased an option covering any second All-Star game played through 1966 at a cost of $250,000. That is the same price paid for last season's inaugural second All-Star game and this season's repeat All-Star performance.

Under the new extension, the commissioner has the right to renegotiate or cancel if a third major league becomes eligible for the World Series after at least three years of operation as a major league.

Bout Cancelled

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The welterweight fight between Florentino Fernandez and Ralph Dupas, scheduled here for March 2, has been cancelled, promoter Chris Dundee said Wednesday. Dundee said Dupas was ill with a virus infection.

Del. Kelley Hits Method Of Moving Racing Dates

Says Bruce Livie Is Bureaucrat In Heading Commission

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — "Can a bureaucrat at his will say that you can't do this or that?" questioned Del. Kelley (R-Allegany) Wednesday in a blast at announced transfer of Cumberland's horse racing dates to Timonium.

"Does that mean Western Maryland people, if they want to see a horse race, must travel? I wonder if the dates belong to the people of Western Maryland, the State, or a group of individuals who can take them.

"The Legislature has allocated them to Western Maryland. I think the whole thing needs investigation."

Kelley's speech on the floor of the House of Delegates came after he had inquired of the Attorney General's office of the legality of the transfer announced Tuesday by R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission.

Kelley said he was advised informally of an attorney general's opinion in 1957 that the commission had discretion to transfer dates from one track to another only "if a true emergency exists."

"Where does the emergency exist?" asked Kelley.

Last year, he recalled, the commission moved Cumberland's 12 days to Hagerstown a couple of days before the meeting was scheduled to start. The "emergency" was reported to be a shortage of horses.

"Can the management of the Cumberland track say at this early date that they can't get horses in August?" Kelley demanded.

The Cumberland meeting at Timonium is scheduled for Aug. 15-27.

Joseph Kaufman, special assistant attorney general to the Racing Commission, said he had not been consulted about the legality of the move. It was his opinion in 1957 that cited the "true emergency" being necessary for a transfer.

Although he didn't mention Livie by name, Kelley obviously referred to the chairman in saying he "was a headache for somebody upstairs."

The delegate recalled that the racing commission had in preparation a bill for this session to give it blanket authority to transfer racing dates. At the time, Livie was talking about transferring the days of Cumberland and Bel Air to Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel.

Livie said the bill would not be introduced after he had a conference with Gov. Tawes.

"Now here comes another matter," said Kelley of the Cumberland to Timonium move.

Saturday the local YMCA quint meets the YMCA team from Washington, D.C., in a game which will have a bearing on berths in the Central Atlantic Regional Area tournament. Losers in tonight's games will tangle in the first game on Friday at 7 and an hour later Circleville, (1-20) which drew an opening round bye tackles the winner of the Franklin-Mathias tilt.

The Moorefield - Wardensville winner tonight advances to the finals on Saturday at 8 p.m. to meet the team that emerges victorious in the games involving Franklin vs. Mathias and Circleville. The consolation final is set for Saturday at 7 p.m.

Franklin and Moorefield loom as the outstanding quints in this tourney. The Yellowjackets of Coach Jonathan Paugh have beaten Wardensville twice, 43-29, and 64-44. Franklin enters the sectional event with a 10-game winning streak, including a pair of decisions over Mathias, 63-46 and 106-42.

Moorefield has whipped Franklin twice this season, 56-50 and 48-35.

Howell To Quit As Giants Coach

The surprise announcement was made at a luncheon honoring Pete Rozelle of Los Angeles, newly elected NFL commissioner.

Howell said his decision was not made on the spur of the moment and that he would stay with the club as director of player personnel.

W.Va. License Fees Are Down

Revenue Falls Even Though Prices Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia's hunting and fishing license fees took a sizable jump as of Jan. 1, and new $1 big game and trout permits went into effect — but the early revenue trend has been down instead of up.

A resident statewide fishing license good for all species except trout, for example, went from $2 to $3 under provisions of a 1959 legislative enactment.

A resident small-game hunting license also went from $2 to $3, and the combination hunting and fishing permit from $3 to $5. Sportsmen need the additional $1 big game stamp to hunt elk, deer and bear.

Whether buyers' resistance, the economy or other factors were to blame, cash remittances in January from about 500 agents handling the licenses ran $62,132 as compared to $64,836 in the same 1959 month.

The February cash receipts, conservation department figures showed, were running about $66,210 this week as compared to $68,043 in February of last year.

The true picture, department officials conceded, won't be apparent until about May — or after the annual trout season opens on April 30 — but they admittedly were viewing the January and February trend with some concern.

Russia's Eugeni Grishin Wins Speed Skating Race

U.S. Is Second; Jenkins Trails In Figure Skating

By TED SMITS

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) Eugeni Grishin, Russia's world champion speed skater, beat America's Bill Disney out of a gold medal Wednesday by one-tenth of a second in the 500-meter race at the Winter Olympics. Grishin's time tied his world record of 40.2 seconds.

A Boston insurance man, Bill Cleary, scored four goals, three unassisted, as the U.S. hockey team won its second game in the championship round-robin by beating Germany 9-1. The Yanks play formidable Canada Thursday.

United States hopes in the men's figure skating also suffered a setback when David Jenkins wound up third after three compulsory figures. Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia was first and Alain Giletti of France second.

Two more school figures will be skated Thursday. The freestyle—when Jenkins, the slender world champion from Colorado Springs, is at his best—comes Friday.

The unofficial score was Divin 415.5, Giletti 404.0, and Jenkins 401.2.

In the only other gold medal event of the day, Ernst Hinterseer, a Kitzbuhel farmer, captured the men's slalom and restored Austria's badly damaged skiing prestige. He made the two runs down KT22 Mountain in 1 minute 10.7 seconds and 58.2 seconds for a total of 2:08.9. The runs were on different courses.

Willy Bogner of Germany, who led on the first run in 1:08.8, fell on the second and failed to finish. Americans finished out of the picture.

Second place in the slalom went to another Austrian, Mathias Leitner, in 2:10.3. Charles Bozon of France was third in 2:10.4.

Russian had the team championship of these games won as competition passed the halfway mark. The Soviets have an unofficial total of 120 points compared to 49½ for second-place Germany and the United States' third place total of 44.

Back of Jenkins after the completion of three figures came Don Jackson of Canada with 391.4, and Tim Brown of Sacramento, Calif., in fifth place with 389.9.

St. Patrick's Seeks 17th Straight Win

St. Patrick's champs will go after their 17th straight victory in the Catholic Youth Basketball League when they tackle Mt. Savage in the first game of a twin bill tonight at 7 o'clock on SS. Peter & Paul court.

St. Michael's will oppose SS. Peter & Paul in the second game at 8 o'clock.

Westernport will visit St. Mary's Gaels in a 7:30 game on St. Mary's court.

The league season was to end tonight but several of the teams have decided to play off games that were postponed.

Howell To Quit As Giants Coach

The surprise announcement was made at a luncheon honoring Pete Rozelle of Los Angeles, newly elected NFL commissioner.

Howell said his decision was not made on the spur of the moment and that he would stay with the club as director of player personnel.

Warfare Heads Preakness Nominees

The race will be run at Pimlico May 21.

The total is about two dozen more than the 1959 list and the largest since a record 176 were names for the 1956 running.

W.Va. License Fees Are Down

Revenue Falls Even Though Prices Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia's hunting and fishing license fees took a sizable jump as of Jan. 1, and new $1 big game and trout permits went into effect — but the early revenue trend has been down instead of up.

A resident statewide fishing license good for all species except trout, for example, went from $2 to $3 under provisions of a 1959 legislative enactment.

A resident small-game hunting license also went from $2 to $3, and the combination hunting and fishing permit from $3 to $5. Sportsmen need the additional $1 big game stamp to hunt elk, deer and bear.

Whether buyers' resistance, the economy or other factors were to blame, cash remittances in January from about 500 agents handling the licenses ran $62,132 as compared to $64,836 in the same 1959 month.

The February cash receipts, conservation department figures showed, were running about $66,210 this week as compared to $68,043 in February of last year.

The true picture, department officials conceded, won't be apparent until about May — or after the annual trout season opens on April 30 — but they admittedly were viewing the January and February trend with some concern.

Russia's Eugeni Grishin Wins Speed Skating Race

By TED SMITS

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) Eugeni Grishin, Russia's world champion speed skater, beat America's Bill Disney out of a gold medal Wednesday by one-tenth of a second in the 500-meter race at the Winter Olympics. Grishin's time tied his world record of 40.2 seconds.

A Boston insurance man, Bill Cleary, scored four goals, three unassisted, as the U.S. hockey team won its second game in the championship round robin by beating Germany 9-1. The Yanks play formidable Canada Thursday.

United States hopes in the men's figure skating also suffered a setback when David Jenkins wound up third after three compulsory figures. Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia was first and Alain Giletti of France second.

Two more school figures will be skated Thursday. The freestyle—when Jenkins, the slender world champion from Colorado Springs, is at his best—comes Friday.

In the only other gold medal event of the day, Ernst Hinterseer, a Kitzbuhel farmer, captured the men's slalom and restored Austria's badly damaged skiing prestige. He made the two runs down KT22 Mountain in 1 minute 10.7 seconds and 58.2 seconds for a total of 2:08.9. The runs were on different courses.

Willy Bogner of Germany, who led on the first run in 1:08.8, fell on the second and failed to finish. Americans finished out of the picture.

Second place in the slalom went to another Austrian, Mathias Leitner, in 2:10.3. Charles Bozon of France was third in 2:10.4.

Russian had the team championship of these games won as competition passed the halfway mark. The Soviets have an unofficial total of 120 points compared to 49½ for second-place Germany and the United States' third place total of 44.

Rafael Grach of Russia was third on the speed skating event with :40.4 and Gennadij Veronin of Russia took fifth in :40.7.

Back of Jenkins after the completion of three figures came Don Jackson of Canada with 391.4, and Tim Brown of Sacramento, Calif., in fifth place with 389.9.

St. Patrick's Seeks 17th Straight Win

St. Patrick's champs will go after their 17th straight victory in the Catholic Youth Basketball League when they tackle Mt. Savage in the first game of a twin bill tonight at 7 o'clock on SS. Peter & Paul court.

St. Michael's will oppose SS. Peter & Paul in the second game at 8 o'clock.

Westernport will visit St. Mary's Gaels in a 7:30 game on St. Mary's court.

The league season was to end tonight but several of the teams have decided to play off games that were postponed.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD— The tip Spencer Tracy gave Stanley Kramer to buy Abbey Mann's play, "Judgment at Nuernberg," has paid off. Kramer bought the motion picture rights and he and Spence have agreed to a deal.

Kramer is now in Europe talking with Abbey Mann about writing the motion picture treatment of the play, which is very dramatic and will give Spence the type of role he's most interested in playing. Whether or not Mann can do any writing until the strike is settled is another question.

That petite financier, Debbie Reynolds, is following in the steps of other big money makers in movies by forming her own company. Her first production under her own banner is titled "Champagne Complex" and she has already hired Michael Gordon to direct. Gordon is taking bows for a magazine award as "best director" for "Imitation of Life"—so Debbie has picked herself a good one.

"Boss" Reynolds is also the producer of the TV spectacular she will do for Liggettt and Myers. When she finishes "Pleasure of His Company" Debbie is taking three months off to devote all her time to her TV venture. And well she might. The deal she signed last year involves one million dollars for three TV shows.

The writers' strike is now six weeks old and Ed Anhalt who scripted such important pictures as "The Young Lions," "The Restless Years," "Not as a Stranger" and many others, is one of a group who is trying to settle the strikers' problems. In telling me about it, Ed said, "only 25 per cent of the writers were working at the time of the strike, and it's some of the working group who are meeting to see if we can't convince the others a serious error has been made."

Ed denied that his faction is breaking away from the Guild and forming a splinter group. But he hopes he may abe able to settle the strike.

Life has been one automobile accident after another for June Havoc, so she says she's getting out of town before it's too late. She opens in "Once More With Feeling" in Phoenix.

"Last week," said June, "a woman drove her car right into my house, tearing down my service porch and knocking off a side of my house. Next night two cars collided in front of my Malibu house—ambulances hauled the occupants off to a hospital. What with the shrieking of sirens, I had no sleep. Tuesday, Bill Spiers, the's June's ex-, who lives next door, was in an automobile accident. He wasn't hurt," said June, "but his car was completely demolished."

There's no one happier over the Academy nominations than Paul Kohner because the apple of his eye, his daughter Susan, was nominated for one of the best supporting roles in "Imitation of Life." But happy as he is, it didn't keep Paul from telling me that nobody can do "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" because he controls all the rights.

"I bought it from the German company which originally made 'Caligari'," he said. "Perhaps Sandy Howard, who announced his intentions of making it, thought it was in public domain, but it isn't," said Paul.

The Academy nominations went very much as we all predicted with two exceptions. In no list did I see or hear mentioned the name of Robert Vaughn (in "The Young Philadelphians") or Hermione Baddeley ("Room at the Top").

This is one of the few years that performance in two comedies were voted as best acting—that of Doris Day in "Pillow Talk" and Jack Lemmon in "Some Like It Hot," but both of them deserve their honors.

Hugh Griffith, the sheik in "Ben-Hur," and George C. Scott, the prosecuting attorney in "Anatomy of a Murder," were two that were often mentioned as possible winners in "support." So was Susan Kohner in "Imitation of Life." All in all, my opinion, the best actors and actresses are good choices.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 13 and must get help with a family problem. It all happened yesterday on Mom's 34th birthday. I forgot it was her birthday and so did my younger sister and brother. Daddy didn't remember it either.

It all started when Mom got a card in the mail from my aunt. That set off the fireworks. We tried to wish her a happy birthday after we realized it was the day, but she got mad and yelled "I'm just a housekeeper and cook around here. Nobody gives a darn about me."

We tried to hug her and she threw us off her lap. Now we are all very sad because she goes around with a long face and won't talk to us. What can we do?—BAD KIDS.

DEAR KIDS: Be friendly and helpful in the house and Mom will sweeten up. Mother's Day is in May—so save your pennies to buy her a nice gift or card to let her know you remembered.

Also, get a 1961 calendar and mark Mom's birthday so you won't let it slip by next year. Remind your Dad—a few days in advance so he can take Mom out to dinner on her 35th. And for heaven's sake, don't forget his birthday.

DEAR ANN: Is social drinking a must these days? In the town where we live it seems that every small dinner party, whether in a home or a restaurant, must start with a cocktail or two. They never ask IF you'd care for one. It's always "What will yours be?"

I'm a man in my 40s who is planning to marry a lovely widow with children. She likes a cocktail before dinner. I do not. She told me nicely that it's rude to be the only one in the crowd not drinking. In my opinion it's foolish to order a drink and let it sit.

I've been told by others that a lone abstainer in a crowd sticks out like a sore thumb. What is your opinion?—ME MYSELF AND I.

DEAR ME: I say what this world needs is more sore thumbs. It's senseless to follow the crowd if you don't particularly care to go in that direction. NO is a perfectly respectable Anglo-Saxon word, used in the best of circles. I heartily recommend that you use it for just such occasions.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son goes with a girl 15. He's 16 and very adult for his age. The problem is the girl's parents. They insist that she be home by midnight. (She has permission to date weekends only.) However, they think it's perfectly all right for a young man to stay and visit as long as he likes. The only thing that matters is that their daughter is at home on time.

Our son has been rolling in at 3:30 and 4 in the morning. We don't think this is right. What can we do about it? We can't tell the girl's parents to kick our son out. — TROUBLED PARENTS.

DEAR TROUBLED PARENTS: It's not good for a young man to park himself at a young lady's home until dawn. The girl's parents should impose some sort of curfew on her visitors. Since they are not so inclined, it's up to you to give your son orders. Tell him he must be home by 1 a. m. This is ample time for fond farewells.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SCARED STIFF: Change the locks on your doors. This is far better than being as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Winter Olympics

Apart from those rather painful opening ceremonies, the Winter Olympics have been a smashing television show. I watched the fancy skating pairs, especially the breathtaking Canadian couple who won the event, Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul, trying valiantly but unsuccessfully to fight down the impulse to write something about poetry in motion. So there I go. Poetry in motion it certainly was.

I watched the men's giant slalom for hours with mounting admiration, not only for the skiers but for the cameramen. Paul Levitan, the producer of the show, has pointed out that this is one of the longest events ever continuously televised. "Even on film, this is usually edited and a camera loses the skier and waits until another camera picks him up. We'll have six cameras along the mountain and we intend to have the skier on camera from the time he leaves until the finish line." Actually, there was one dip where the skier was lost to view for a few seconds; otherwise, though, this was accomplished so smoothly that you were not aware of the change of cameras.

Squaw Valley is a mighty photogenic spot and there are some great shots of the valley and the snow covered peaks, especially one great camera angle of skiers going up the chair lift. The camerawork keeping the figure skaters in some sort of perspective during those high speed leaps and spins was miraculous.

Water Cronkite is acting as anchor man in a team of CBS commentators with practiced assurance. (The cold seems to be scrambling his wits a little though. I've heard him call slalaters skiers and seconds minutes, several times). The CBS commentators, Bud Palmer, mostly, called in former Olympic champions like Andrea Meade Lawrence, the lady skier, and Dick Button, the figure skating champion, to help out in explaining the technical aspects of the sports. This was educational. (Mrs. Lawrence, an unsmiling lady, takes skiing a shade more seriously than anything short of death and taxes ought to be taken but she sure knows her subject).

The broadcast, first winter Olympics to be broadcast in this country (four years ago the games were broadcast from Cortina by Eurovision), are about half live, half tape, since they are spread out all day. To get an 8 a. m. event on tape, the crew gets up at 4 a. m. In case you haven't caught any of it yet, some of the most spectacular events are yet to come. Leviten figures the most sensational events will be the men's free figure skating finals on Friday, the hockey game between Russia and the United States on Saturday (which for competitive excitement ought to top 'em all), and the men's eighty-meter ski jump on Sunday, the closing day of the games.

The opening ceremonies were really dull. Mr. Cronkite pointed out that it was snowing. Mr. Nixon said hello. Two thousand doves flew home. Andrea Meade Lawrence skied down a hill with the Olympic torch lit in Norway. A cameraman fell down, easily the highlight of the half hour. But after that things picked up. I just wish there weren't so many commercials.

"I think this really is an educational program," says Vern Diamond, the coordinating director. "We're covering many events that haven't been seen before. In 1952 I helped televise the first political conventions and at first nobody cared about those. But then people got interested because it was a slice of Americana they'd never seen before. We hope the same thing happens with the winter Olympics."

CBS will also broadcast the Olympic games next summer, taping them and flying them here.

Judge Makes Ruling In Roadway Case

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County in an opinion filed in a case he heard in Allegany County Circuit Court several weeks ago, ruled that the respondents in an equity case be restrained from preventing the reasonable use of a private roadway on Polish Mountain which connects with U. S. Route 40.

Ernest Hoffman brought the suit against Ernest Poole seeking an injunction against any blocking or barricading the roadway or interference with the use of the road.

Judge Fraley said the facts in the case show that Hoffman and his wife, Mrs. Alma Hoffman, bought the property from Poole and his wife, Mrs. Regina Poole in 1946. The jurist cited the deed contained the usual provisions for the use of the buildings, improvements, roads, waters and privileges and appurtenances thereto.

Judge Fraley ruled that "applying the facts in this case to the legal principles I am of the opinion that there was a grant by implication of the right to use the roadway when the Pooles conveyed the property to the Hoffmans.

"This use, however, must be a reasonable one and the complainants, or anyone acting for them, do not have the right to use this roadway, or do anything to it, so as to interfere with the property of the Pooles.

The opinion recounted how the property was used as a school house starting in 1878 and later for religious purposes until about 1931. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners sold the property to Rawley K. Swayne.

Sometime after the property was sold the building was enlarged and improved and was occupied by the Pooles until they sold it in 1946.

The roadway in dispute is about 900 feet long and it was testified it had been in use about 45 years.

Edward J. Ryan and Milton Gerson were attorneys for Hoffman while Harold E. Naughton was counsel for Poole.

Station Seeks Shaver

KARISTAD, Sweden (UPI)—A television station Wednesday sought an unidentified man whose shaving was interfering with its television programs. The station ran a newspaper ad promising to install anti-interference devices on the man's electric shaver which he uses in his home near the transmitter.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD— The tip Spencer Tracy gave Stanley Kramer to buy Abbey Mann's play, "Judgment at Nuernberg," has paid off. Kramer bought the motion picture rights and he and Spence have agreed to a deal.

Kramer is now in Europe talking with Abbey Mann about writing the motion picture treatment of the play, which is very dramatic and will give Spence the type of role he's most interested in playing. Whether or not Mann can do any writing until the strike is settled is another question.

That petite financier, Debbie Reynolds, is following in the steps of other big money makers in movies by forming her own company. Her first production under her own banner is titled "Champagne Complex" and she has already hired Michael Gordon to direct. Gordon is taking bows for a magazine award as "best director" for "Imitation of Life"—so Debbie has picked herself a good one.

"Boss" Reynolds is also the producer of the TV spectacular she will do for Liggett and Myers. When she finishes "Pleasure of His Company" Debbie is taking three months off to devote all her time to her TV venture. And well she might. The deal she signed last year involves one million dollars for three TV shows.

The writers' strike is now six weeks old and Ed Anhalt who scripted such important pictures as "The Young Lions," "The Restless Years," "Not as a Stranger" and many others, is one of a group who is trying to settle the strikers' problems. In telling me about it, Ed said, "only 25 per cent of the writers were working at the time of the strike, and it's some of the working group who are meeting to see if we can't convince the others a serious error has been made."

Ed denied that his faction is breaking away from the Guild and forming a splinter group. But he hopes he may abe able to settle the strike.

Life has been one automobile accident after another for June Havoc, so she says she's getting out of town before it's too late. She opens in "Once More With Feeling" in Phoenix.

"Last week," said June, "a woman drove her car right into my house, tearing down my service porch and knocking off a side of my house. Next night two cars collided in front of my Malibu house—ambulances hauled the occupants off to a hospital. What with the shrieking of sirens, I had no sleep. Tuesday, Bill Spiers (he's June's ex), who lives next door, was in an automobile accident. He wasn't hurt," said June, "but his car was completely demolished."

There's no one happier over the Academy nominations than Paul Kohner because the apple of his eye, his daughter Susan, was nominated for one of the best supporting roles in "Imitation of Life." But happy as he is, it didn't keep Paul from telling me that nobody can do "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" because he controls all the rights.

"I bought it from the German company which originally made 'Caligari'," he said. "Perhaps Sandy Howard, who announced his intentions of making it, thought it was in public domain, but it isn't," said Paul.

The Academy nominations went very much as we all predicted with two exceptions. In no list did I see or hear mentioned the name of Robert Vaughn (in "The Young Philadelphians") or Hermione Baddeley ("Room at the Top").

This is one of the few years that performance in two comedies were voted as best acting—that of Doris Day in "Pillow Talk" and Jack Lemmon in "Some Like It Hot," but both of them deserve their honors.

Hugh Griffith, the sheik in "Ben-Hur," and George C. Scott, the prosecuting attorney in "Anatomy of a Murder," were two that were often mentioned as possible winners in "support." So was Susan Kohner in "Imitation of Life." All in all, my opinion, the best actors and actresses are good choices.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 13 and must get help with a family problem. It all happened yesterday on Mom's 34th birthday. I forgot it was her birthday and so did my younger sister and brother. Daddy didn't remember it either.

It all started when Mom got a card in the mail from my aunt. That set off the fireworks. We tried to wish her a happy birthday after we realized it was the day, but she got mad and yelled "I'm just a housekeeper and cook around here. Nobody gives a darn about me."

We tried to hug her and she threw us off her lap. Now we are all very sad because she goes around with a long face and won't talk to us. What can we do?—BAD KIDS.

DEAR KIDS: Be friendly and helpful in the house and Mom will sweeten up. Mother's Day is in May—so save your pennies to buy her a nice gift or card to let her know you remembered.

Also, get a 1961 calendar and mark Mom's birthday so you won't let it slip by next year. Remind your Dad—a few days in advance so he can take Mom out to dinner on her 35th. And for heaven's sake, don't forget his birthday.

DEAR ANN: Is social drinking a must these days? In the town where we live it seems that every small dinner party, whether in a home or a restaurant, must start with a cocktail or two. They never ask IF you'd care for one. It's always "What will yours be?"

I'm a man in my 40s who is planning to marry a lovely widow with children. She likes a cocktail before dinner. I do not. She told me nicely that it's rude to be the only one in the crowd not drinking. In my opinion it's foolish to order a drink and let it sit.

I've been told by others that a lone abstainer in a crowd sticks out like a sore thumb. What is your opinion?—ME MYSELF AND I.

DEAR ME: I say what this world needs is more sore thumbs. It's senseless to follow the crowd if you don't particularly care to go in that direction. NO is a perfectly respectable Anglo-Saxon word, used in the best of circles. I heartily recommend that you use it for just such occasions.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son goes with a girl 15. He's 16 and very adult for his age. The problem is the girl's parents. They insist that she be home by midnight. (She has permission to date weekends only.) However, they think it's perfectly all right for a young man to stay and visit as long as he likes. The only thing that matters is that their daughter is at home on time.

Our son has been rolling in at 3:30 and 4 in the morning. We don't think this is right. What can we do about it? We can't tell the girl's parents to kick our son out. — TROUBLED PARENTS.

DEAR TROUBLED PARENTS: It's not good for a young man to park himself at a young lady's home until dawn. The girl's parents should impose some sort of curfew on her visitors. Since they are not so inclined, it's up to you to give your son orders. Tell him he must be home by 1 a. m. This is ample time for fond farewells.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SCARED STIFF: Change the locks on your doors. This is far better than being as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Winter Olympics

Apart from those rather painful opening ceremonies, the Winter Olympics have been a smashing television show. I watched the fancy skating pairs, especially the breathtaking Canadian couple who won the event, Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul, trying valiantly but unsuccessfully to fight down the impulse to write something about poetry in motion. So there I go. Poetry in motion it certainly was.

I watched the men's giant slalom for hours with mounting admiration, not only for the skiers but for the cameramen. Paul Levitan, the producer of the show, has pointed out that this is one of the longest events ever continuously televised. "Even on film, this is usually edited and a camera loses the skier and waits until another camera picks him up. We'll have six cameras along the mountain and we intend to have the skier on camera from the time he leaves until the finish line." Actually, there was one dip where the skier was lost to view for a few seconds; otherwise, though, this was accomplished so smoothly that you were not aware of the change of cameras.

Squaw Valley is a mighty photogenic spot and there are some great shots of the valley and the snow covered peaks, especially one great camera angle of skiers going up the chair lift. The camerawork keeping the figure skaters in some sort of perspective during those high speed leaps and spins was miraculous.

Water Cronkite is acting as anchor man in a team of CBS commentators with practiced assurance. (The cold seems to be scrambling his wits a little though. I've heard him call skaters skiers and seconds minutes, several times). The CBS commentators, Bud Palmer, mostly, called in former Olympic champions like Andrea Meade Lawrence, the lady skier, and Dick Button, the figure skating champion, to help out in explaining the technical aspects of the sports. This was educational. (Mrs. Lawrence, an unsmiling lady, takes skiing a shade more seriously than anything short of death and taxes ought to be taken but she sure knows her subject).

The broadcast, first winter Olympics to be broadcast in this country (four years ago the games were broadcast from Cortina by Eurovision), are about half live, half tape, since they are spread out all day. To get an 8 a. m. event on tape, the crew gets up at 4 a. m. In case you haven't caught any of it yet, some of the most spectacular events are yet to come. Leviten figures the most sensational events will be the men's free figure skating finals on Friday, the hockey game between Russia and the United States on Saturday (which for competitive excitement ought to top 'em all), and the men's eighty-meter ski jump on Sunday, the closing day of the games.

The opening ceremonies were really dull. Mr. Cronkite pointed out that it was snowing. Mr. Nixon said hello. Two thousand doves flew home. Andrea Meade Lawrence skied down a hill with the Olympic torch lit in Norway. A cameraman fell down, easily the highlight of the half hour. But after that things picked up. I just wish there weren't so many commercials.

"I think this really is an educational program," says Vern Diamond, the coordinating director. "We're covering many events that haven't been seen before. In 1952 I helped televise the first political conventions and at first nobody cared about those. But then people got interested because it was a slice of Americana they'd never seen before. We hope the same thing happens with the winter Olympics."

CBS will also broadcast the Olympic games next summer, taping them and flying them here.

Judge Makes Ruling In Roadway Case

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County in an opinion filed in a case he heard in Allegany County Circuit Court several weeks ago, ruled that the respondents in an equity case be restrained from preventing the reasonable use of a private roadway on Polish Mountain which connects with U. S. Route 40.

Ernest Hoffman brought the suit against Ernest Poole seeking an injunction against any blocking or barricading the roadway or interference with the use of the road.

Judge Fraley said the facts in the case show that Hoffman and his wife, Mrs. Alma Hoffman, bought the property from Poole and his wife, Mrs. Regina Poole in 1946. The jurist cited the deed contained the usual provisions for the use of the buildings, improvements, roads, waters and privileges and appurtenances thereto.

Judge Fraley ruled that "applying the facts in this case to the legal principles I am of the opinion that there was a grant by implication of the right to use the roadway when the Pooles conveyed the property to the Hoffmans.

"This use, however, must be a reasonable one and the complainants, or anyone acting for them, do not have the right to use this roadway, or do anything to it, so as to interfere with the property of the Pooles.

The opinion recounted how the property was used as a school house starting in 1878 and later for religious purposes until about 1931. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners sold the property to Rawley K. Swayne.

Sometime after the property was sold the building was enlarged and improved and was occupied by the Pooles until they sold it in 1946.

The roadway in dispute is about 500 feet long and it was testified it had been in use about 45 years.

Edward J. Ryan and Milton Gerson were attorneys for Hoffman while Harold E. Naughton was counsel for Poole.

Station Seeks Shaver

KARISTAD, Sweden (UPI)—A television station Wednesday sought an unidentified man whose shaving was interfering with its television programs. The station ran a newspaper ad promising to install anti-interference devices on the man's electric shaver which he uses in his home near the transmitter.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Francis L. Beck, who gave his all 15 years ago today, Feb. 25, 1945 in Germany for the cause of freedom.
Fourteen years have passed dear Francis
Since you did last feel pain.
Far from loved ones to comfort you,
As you gave your all that day.
The source of sorrow has not stopped.
Neither has the horror of war.
God alone knows how much we miss you.
Throughout these 15 years.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER,
SISTER & BROTHER.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Rose Braithewaite. We especially wish to thank the Pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and donated cars and all others who in so many ways assisted.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Francis L. Beck, who gave his all 15 years ago today, Feb. 25, 1945 in Germany for the cause of freedom.
Fourteen years have passed dear Francis
Since you did last feel pain.
Far from loved ones to comfort you,
As you gave your all that day.
The source of sorrow has not stopped,
Neither has the horror of war.
God alone knows how much we miss you
Throughout these 15 years.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER,
SISTER & BROTHER.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Rose Braithewaite. We especially wish to thank the Pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and donated cars and all others who in so many ways assisted.
Mr. and Mrs. John Morrissey
Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Evans
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hablemeyer

Market Yields To Selling Pressure, Closes Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks ran into a steady stream of profit selling Wednesday but closed slightly above their worst levels of the day.

The general list was under pressure from the opening, and only once, during the fourth hour, did the selling let up. Industrials lost more than 2 in their average. Rails rallied in the forenoon to recover a good part of their previous losses. Utilities closed with a nominal net gain in their average.

Aircrafts, electronics and scattered specials sprinkled some good gains throughout the list, while leading steels, autos and chemicals led the main body of stocks into lower ground.

Polaroid was a standout among the cameras for a time on reports of a possible stock split. The issue was up more than 6 points at its top before a denial brought on a flurry of selling. The issue, off a large fraction in the last hour, managed to close at 187⅞ up ⅛.

American Motors declined more than 4 as a leading investment advisory service recommended selling the issue. The when-issued stock dropped more than a point. Of the other autos, Ford lost more than a point, and General Motors, Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard gave up fractions.

Steels ruled generally lower. Lukens fell 2 and U.S. Steel more than a point. Youngstown Sheet countered with a gain of more than a half. Du Pont in the chemicals lost more than 2 to help drag the industrials down. Other blue chips — Westinghouse and American Telephone — showed losses of more than a point each.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 NT	2 ♠
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

Declarer overlooked a marked end play today which would have assured the success of his game contract.

West opened the jack of spades against four hearts. East won with the ace and returned the nine for West to ruff. According to modern convention, this is a suit preference signal, requesting West to lead the higher ranking of the plain suits. However, fortunately for his side, West chose to make a safe return from his solid club sequence. It will be observed that South could have permitted a diamond return to ride around to his ten, thus forcing out the king.

Declarer won the queen of clubs with the king in dummy. He therefore led five rounds of trumps in the hope that the adversaries would commit some kind of indiscretion in the process of discarding. The enemy, however, proved highly uncooperative, and declarer fell back upon the diamond finesse. When this failed to come off, he had yet a diamond to lose; and the contract went on the rocks.

In view of East's vulnerable bid, we would have had little faith in the diamond finesse. Better strategy would have been to project an end play against East in order to force a diamond lead into dummy.

In pursuance of this plan, South, upon winning the club return, should cash the ace and ruff a club in his hand. This eliminates the clubs from the East hand. Two rounds of hearts winding up in dummy draw the outstanding trumps.

The remaining spade is led, and East is permitted to hold the trick, as South sheds a little diamond. East is now burdened with the lead, a chore which renders his cause hopeless.

A spade return permits declarer to discard a diamond as he ruffs in dummy, while a diamond return into North's ace-queen is the obvious way of committing suicide.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Profit-taking cut into early advances of most grains, and only corn closed higher Wednesday. Oats were steady. At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to ½; corn unchanged to up ⅝; oats unchanged to off ⅛; rye off ¼ to 1⅛, and soybeans off ¾ to up ¼.

Wheat prices firmed in early trading as mills, commercial houses and some exporters bought. There was moderate liquidation in the March. After the demand slackened, prices fell easier.

Corn also closed steady to firm. Offerings were easily absorbed, and carlot arrivals were estimated at 66 cars. Much of the trade consisted of spreading. An industry bought May and July and sold March.

Export subsidies were granted on 100,000 bushels of corn and 3,000 bushels of rye.

Oats held steady through the session. Spreaders bought May and sold March at ¾ cent difference. There was a resting demand for March at 73 and for May at 72¾.

Rye futures were irregularly lower.

Soybeans continued unsettled. Early general selling and liquidation dropped prices of nearby contracts to new seasonal lows. One processor bought March and sold May at 3 cents difference. Commercial houses took March, and meals and oils were slightly higher.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Yields To Selling Pressure, Closes Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks ran into a steady stream of profit selling Wednesday but closed slightly above their worst levels of the day.

The general list was under pressure from the opening, and only once, during the fourth hour, did the selling let up. Industrials lost more than 2 in their average. Rails rallied in the forenoon to recover a good part of their previous losses. Utilities closed with a nominal net gain in their average.

Aircrafts, electronics and scattered specials sprinkled some good gains throughout the list, while leading steels, autos and chemicals led the main body of stocks into lower ground.

Polaroid was a standout among the cameras for a time on reports of a possible stock split. The issue was up more than 6 points at its top before a denial brought on a flurry of selling. The issue, off a large fraction in the last hour, managed to close at 187⅞ up ⅛.

American Motors declined more than 4 as a leading investment advisory service recommended selling the issue. The when-issued stock dropped more than a point. Of the other autos, Ford lost more than a point, and General Motors, Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard gave up fractions.

Steels ruled generally lower. Lukens fell 2 and U.S. Steel more than a point. Youngstown Sheet countered with a gain of more than a half. Du Pont in the chemicals lost more than 2 to help drag the industrials down. Other blue chips — Westinghouse and American Telephone — Showed losses of more than a point each.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

Declarer overlooked a marked end play today which would have assured the success of his game contract.

West opened the jack of spades against four hearts. East won with the ace and returned the nine for West to ruff. According to modern convention, this is a suit preference signal, requesting West to lead the higher ranking of the plain suits. However, fortunately for his side, West chose to make a safe return from his solid club sequence. It will be observed that South could have permitted a diamond return to ride around to his ten, thus forcing out the king.

Declarer won the queen of clubs with the king in dummy. He therefore led five rounds of trumps in the hope that the adversaries would commit some kind of indiscretion in the process of discarding. The enemy, however, proved highly uncooperative, and declarer fell back upon the diamond finesse. When this failed to come off, he had yet a diamond to lose; and the contract went on the rocks.

In view of East's vulnerable bid, we would have had little faith in the diamond finesse. Better strategy would have been to project an end play against East in order to force a diamond lead into dummy.

In pursuance of this plan, South, upon winning the club return, should cash the ace and ruff a club in his hand. This eliminates the clubs from the East hand. Two rounds of hearts winding up in dummy draw the outstanding trumps.

The remaining spade is led, and East is permitted to hold the trick, as South sheds a little diamond. East is now burdened with the lead, a chore which renders his cause hopeless.

A spade return permits declarer to discard a diamond as he ruffs in dummy, while a diamond return into North's ace-queen is the obvious way of committing suicide.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Profit-taking cut into early advances of most grains, and only corn closed higher Wednesday. Oats were steady. At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to ⅛; corn unchanged to up ⅝; oats unchanged to off ⅛; rye off ¼ to 1⅛, and soybeans off ⅝ to up ⅛.

Wheat prices firmed in early trading as mills, commercial houses and some exporters bought. There was moderate liquidation in the March. After the demand slackened, prices fell easier.

Corn also closed steady to firm. Offerings were easily absorbed, and carlot arrivals were estimated at 66 cars. Much of the trade consisted of spreading. An industry bought May and July and sold March.

Export subsidies were granted on 100,000 bushels of corn and 3,000 bushels of rye.

Oats held steady through the session. Spreaders bought May and sold March at ⅜ cent difference. There was a resting demand for March at 73 and for May at 72¼.

Rye futures were irregularly lower.

Soybeans continued unsettled. Early general selling and liquidation dropped prices of nearby contracts to new seasonal lows. One processor bought March and sold May at 3 cents difference. Commercial houses took March, and meals and oils were slightly higher.

Outside markets were mixed.

Apportionment Bill Defeated

Tawes-Backed Plan Fails, 62-59

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The House of Delegates handed a resounding defeat, despite the avowed support of Gov. Tawes, Wednesday to the proposal to give more representation to the biggest counties.

Only half of Baltimore City's 36 delegates voted for the reapportionment that failed 59-62. The bill needed 74 votes for passage.

Opponents promptly put a parliamentary clincher on it so the same bill may not be reconsidered again by the House.

The clear cut victory was scored by the small counties that have resisted any change in the representation in the Legislature for years.

Outside of the solid votes of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery, and Prince Georges counties — which would have received most of the additional 18 delegates —the bill received the full support of only one other county.

Somerset County Backing

That was Somerset, the native home of Gov. Tawes. Four of the six Washington County delegates, Gale Cohill and Clarence Mason being the exceptions, also followed the governor's lead.

Stray votes were picked up from Del. Mathias (R-Frederick) and Walsh (D-Allegany). Walsh's father was head of the commission that recommended the changes.

With outright reapportionment dead, the House probably will have the question presented in a different form again this week. The Judiciary Committee earlier in the day gave a favorable report to a bill to call a constitutional convention next year.

Reapportionment would be a prime subject of the convention. However, the legislature just 10 years ago declined to call a convention although statewide voters had approved it.

Senate Passes Court Bill

Across the Statehouse corridor, major action in the Senate included passage of a bill to expand Court of Appeals membership from five to seven, subject to approval of the voters. The measure now goes to the House.

But the Senators refused 15-13 to reverse a 6-5 Finance Committee vote against increasing the pay of the appellate judges.

There was no debate on the House - passed measure, which would have raised the chief judge from $22,500 to $25,500 and his associates from $22,0000 to $25,000.

The senators also tentatively approved measures to set up a long-range study of horse racing in Maryland and to authorize the State Comptroller to pay Baltimore City and the counties their shares of the state income tax on a current basis. The latter is designed to make about two million dollars available to the financially struggling city for its next budget.

Although the Board of Natural Resources last month voted 7-0 against a move to broaden powers of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, the Senate gave semi-final approval to a bill which would give the commission additional authority and increase its budget ceiling.

Farm Assessments

Also tentatively approved was a bill designed to protect farmers from increased assessments which might result by the development of property next to their farms.

This measure, already cleared by the House, would offset a recent Court of Appeals ruling that the law requires the farmland to be assessed at the same rate as adjacent residential or commercial property.

The House approved tentatively a merger of two bills that would provide 852 more college scholarships paid for be the state.

One bill, aimed at what Del. Lee (D-Montgomery) said was a house cleaning job on present scholarship awards, would set up 1,979 scholarships, 452 more than the state presently finances.

The other bill adds 800 scholarships which would be based primarily on financial need of the applicant and would permit the recipient to choose any college in the state.

The House also approved an increase in the county hunting license fee to $1.75 and a new $2 deer stamp.

Forestry Meet Program Being Readied Here

Event Tuesday At Shrine Club

The program for the 18th annual training meeting of state forestry supervisory personnel in the Western Maryland area is being completed, according to William H. Johnson, district forester, who said the all-day session will be held Tuesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The purpose of the annual meetings, started in 1943, is to familiarize employes with the jobs of fellow workers in the interchange of information.

"The Importance of My Job" is this year's theme, said Mr. Johnson. He pointed out that topics of discussion have been assigned to employes in his district and there will be time for question and answer periods.

The session will begin at 9 a. m. and will wind up at 4:30 p. m. with a luncheon being served about noon.

Forty-Five To Attend

About 45 persons are expected to attend including H. C. Buckingham, state forester; A. R. Bond, assistant state forester; William A. Paar, superintendent of state parks; and Peter Van der Lugt, property custodian of the Department of Forests and Parks.

Assistant district foresters have been assigned topics of discussion. Harry Hartman, Allegany County, will discuss "Cooperative Forest Management for the Betterment of Flood Control in the Potomac River Basin"; R. Thomas Thayer, Garrett County, "Reforestation in Western Maryland"; Tunis Lyon, Washington County, "Marking and Marketing Timber."

Clinton Irwin, Garrett County, "State Forest Timber Management"; Nelson Loftus, Frederick County "Zoning of Conservation Areas in Frederick County"; Edward Kline, Garrett County, "Promoting Forest Practice Through Agricultural Conservation Stabilization Practices."

Fire Control To Be Aired

In reference to fire control, an important phase of forestry work, Elmer Uphole, forest supervisor of Garrett County, will discuss "Being Prepared to Fight Forest Fires"; Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor of Allegany and west Washington County, "Preventing Forest Fires"; Herman Toms, supervisor of Frederick and east Washington County, "Attacking Forest Fires."

Don Boyer, park superintendent of Frederick County, will speak on "Maintaining and Operating State Parks," and Marion Hoffman, roadside tree supervisor of Frederick County, will discuss "Maintaining the Beauty of Roadside Trees."

Three women employed in the office of Mr. Johnson will be invited to attend the luncheon and will sit in on the discussion of general administrative procedure.

Local Firemen Get Two Calls

City firemen answered two calls last night.

South End was called about 7:45 p. m. to 925 Grand Avenue where sulphur candles had been lit to fumigate an apartment.

Firemen were asked to enter the smoke-filled apartment and open windows, as the occupants were unable to enter due to the thick smoke. Firemen used gas masks.

In the other call, East Side firemen went to the vicinity of Piedmont and Shawnee avenues where someone was burning brush on Wills Mountain.

They were summoned when Box 314 at the intersection of Shawnee Avenue and Holland Street was pulled at 6:45 p. m. The fire was supervised and no damage was reported.

Girl Thinks Slain Woman May Have Been Her Mother

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A 19-year-old Weirton woman said Wednesday a woman whose body was found in the Berkeley Springs area almost 10 years ago may have been her mother.

The woman, who asked not to be identified, said she asked State Police to assist her in determining if the woman was her mother after reading a United Press International story on the woman.

The story recounted how the body of a woman was found May 10, 1950. She had been strangled. Her identity or that of her murderer were never learned by police.

The Weirton woman said her family was living in Steubenville, Ohio at the time of her mother's disappearance.

"The description of the woman fits my mother pretty well and she disappeared around the time the body was found," the woman said.

The girl's mother and the woman found near Berkeley Springs were both between 30 and 40 years of age and had red hair.

Wage Boost Sought For State Workers

Acquitted Slayer Ordered To Pay For Victim's Death

District Court Judge Edward A. Tamm, Washington, D. C., ruled recently that a man may be found not responsible for a crime by reason of insanity, and still be held accountable in a civil trial, in a case involving the slaying of a former local woman.

Judge Tamm ruled that Harry C. Porter, 32, committed to St. Elizabeth Hospital for the 1952 stangling of Codie A. Whitman, must pay $16,459 in compensation for her death.

After several years in the hospital Porter was brought to trial last December 14 and acquitted by reason of insanity.

Meanwhile Mabel D. Kendall of this city, Miss Whitman's sister and administratrix of her estate, filed a civil suit against the apartment owner, Gore Properties, Inc., for negligence in hiring Porter.

That suit was settled for $11,000 after a trial and a ruling by the United State Court of Appeals that the owner had failed to make "even the most cursory inquiry" into Porter's background.

Aetna Casualty and Insurance Co., which paid the civil claim, then sued to recover from Porter, who had accumulated about $10,000 in Air Force disability payments.

B&O Asks Bids On Retarder Building Here

Main Track, Tower Placed In Service

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is advertising for bids for the construction of a retarder tower and yard office on the westbound yards of the huge marshaling yards being built here.

R. J. Cannon, Cumberland Division superintendent, said the building will be constructed near the city line at Evitts Creek.

The bids will be opened by C. R. Riley, chief engineer, at the B&O Building in Baltimore March 4 at noon.

A two-story office wing will adjoin the tower.

Several floors of the tower building will be used for office space and the office wing will be used chiefly for the yardmaster's office.

To Be Control Point

The tower will be located at the west end of the westbound yards, which will extend from Mexico Farms to Evitts Creek and will serve as the control point for the westbound yard complex.

The retarder facility is included in a $3,000,000 construction phase which began December 1, 1959 as the railroad resumed work halted January 31, 1958, on the $13,000,000 program.

The current phase, scheduled to be completed in 15 months, will see the completion of the five-mile westbound yards.

Open New Track

On Tuesday, the B & O opened Main Track No. 1 of the new yard facility. The track runs from Mexico Farms to Virginia Avenue, where it connects to the existing main track.

No. 2 main track, running eastbound, is ready to be cut in and will parallel Track No. 1.

Cutting in of the new tracks will allow necessary rearrangement of tracks in the yard complex.

Also opened here Tuesday by division officials of the B & O was a new tower at Mexico Farms which will be a control point in the big yards.

Plans call for the westbound yard, including receiving and classification sections, to be completed by January 1, 1961.

When completed, the project will give the Queen City the nation's most modern marshaling yards.

The retarder system is familiar to Cumberland Division railroaders, as a retarder system was placed into service in the eastbound yard here in 1947.

At that time, about 1,700 freight cars were humped from the retarder unit in a day.

State Education Board To Meet At Frostburg

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., who joined the State Department of Education in 1936, was appointed Wednesday to another four-year term as superintendent of Maryland's public schools.

The re-appointment of the 66-year-old educator was made at a meeting of the State Board of Education. The action was unanimous.

Dr. Pullen, who joined the Maryland school system as principal of Catonsville High School in 1926, became assistant state superintendent in 1936 and superintendent in 1942.

The reappointment came at a meeting during which the board received a report on action by the General Assembly, now in session in Annapolis, on legislation pertaining to education.

The board, among other things, also agreed to hold a special meeting June 6 at Frostburg State Teachers College during the dedication of new buildings and commencement exercises at the Western Maryland school.

It also gave formal approval for the granting of associate in arts degrees by the Charles County Junior College at La Plata and the Prince George's Community College at Suitland. The two institutions have been operating for two years.

The board granted a request of Frostburg State that Dr. Laura B. Harney, who was 70 on Feb. 7, be kept on the faculty until the end of the current academic year. She had planned to retire, but will remain on the staff because of an unexpected vacancy.

Parking Lot Plans Studied

Plans for a parking lot at the Girl Scout House on Greene Street are being studied by the Cumberland Police Department.

Some time ago, the Mayor and Council gave Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming authority to proceed with plans for the facility.

Mr. Fleming said space is available for about 62 cars at metered spaces.

He said the study is proceeding and will be presented to the Mayor and Council for adoption when all details are worked out.

Current plans call for the use of double-headed meters. No decision has been made on the time the devices can be set, but police said that will not be a problem, as meters can be adjusted for up to 10 hours of parking time for one coin.

Up to 100 cars are jammed in the area at present, parked bumper to bumper during daylight hours.

John Slider was acting chairman at the meeting in the absence of Glenn Kuebeler. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 22 at the church.

Apportionment Bill Defeated

Tawes-Backed Plan Fails, 62-59

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The House of Delegates handed a resounding defeat, despite the avowed support of Gov. Tawes, Wednesday to the proposal to give more representation to the biggest counties.

Only half of Baltimore City's 36 delegates voted for the reapportionment that failed 59-62. The bill needed 74 votes for passage.

Opponents promptly put a parliamentary clincher on it so the same bill may not be reconsidered again by the House.

The clear cut victory was scored by the small counties that have resisted any change in the representation in the Legislature for years.

Outside of the solid votes of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery, and Prince Georges counties — which would have received most of the additional 18 delegates —the bill received the full support of only one other county.

Somerset County Backing

That was Somerset, the native home of Gov. Tawes. Four of the six Washington County delegates, Gale Cohill and Clarence Mason being the exceptions, also followed the governor's lead.

Stray votes were picked up from Del. Mathias (R-Frederick) and Walsh (D-Allegany). Walsh's father was head of the commission that recommended the changes.

With outright reapportionment dead, the House probably will have the question presented in a different form again this week. The Judiciary Committee earlier in the day gave a favorable report to a bill to call a constitutional convention next year.

Reapportionment would be a prime subject of the convention. However, the legislature just 10 years ago declined to call a convention although statewide voters had approved it.

Senate Passes Court Bill

Across the Statehouse corridor, major action in the Senate included passage of a bill to expand Court of Appeals membership from five to seven, subject to approval of the voters. The measure now goes to the House.

But the Senators refused 15-13 to reverse a 6-5 Finance Committee vote against increasing the pay of the appellate judges.

There was no debate on the House - passed measure, which would have raised the chief judge from $22,500 to $25,500 and his associates from $22,0000 to $25,000.

The senators also tentatively approved measures to set up a long-range study of horse racing in Maryland and to authorize the State Comptroller to pay Baltimore City and the counties their shares of the state income tax on a current basis. The latter is designed to make about two million dollars available to the financially struggling city for its next budget.

Although the Board of Natural Resources last month voted 7-0 against a move to broaden powers of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, the Senate gave semi-final approval to a bill which would give the commission additional authority and increase its budget ceiling.

Farm Assessments

Also tentatively approved was a bill designed to protect farmers from increased assessments which might result by the development of property next to their farms.

This measure, already cleared by the House, would offset a recent Court of Appeals ruling that the law requires the farmland to be assessed at the same rate as adjacent residential or commercial property.

The House approved tentatively a merger of two bills that would provide 852 more college scholarships paid for be the state.

One bill, aimed at what Del Lee (D-Montgomery) said was a house cleaning job on present scholarship awards, would set up 1,979 scholarships, 452 more than the state presently finances.

The other bill adds 800 scholarships which would be based primarily on financial need of the applicant and would permit the recipient to choose any college in the state.

The House also approved an increase in the county hunting license fee to $1.75 and a new $2 deer stamp.

Local Firemen Get Two Calls

City firemen answered two calls last night.

South End was called about 7:45 p. m. to 925 Grand Avenue where sulphur candles had been lit to fumigate an apartment.

Firemen were asked to enter the smoke-filled apartment and open windows, as the occupants were unable to enter due to the thick smoke. Firemen used gas masks.

In the other call, East Side firemen went to the vicinity of Piedmont and Shawnee avenues where someone was burning brush on Wills Mountain.

They were summoned when Box 314 at the intersection of Shawnee Avenue and Holland Street was pulled at 6:45 p. m. The fire was supervised and no damage was reported.

State Education Board To Meet At Frostburg

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., who joined the State Department of Education in 1936, was appointed Wednesday to another four-year term as superintendent of Maryland's public schools.

The re-appointment of the 66-year-old educator was made at a meeting of the State Board of Education. The action was unanimous.

Dr. Pullen, who joined the Maryland school system as principal of Catonsville High School in 1926, became assistant state superintendent in 1936 and superintendent in 1942.

The reappointment came at a meeting during which the board received a report on action by the General Assembly, now in session in Annapolis, on legislation pertaining to education.

The board, among other things, also agreed to hold a special meeting June 6 at Frostburg State Teachers College during the dedication of new buildings and commencement exercises at the Western Maryland school.

It also gave formal approval for the granting of associate in arts degrees by the Charles County Junior College at La Plata and the Prince George's Community College at Suitland. The two institutions have been operating for two years.

The board granted a request of Frostburg State that Dr. Laura B. Harney, who was 70 on Feb. 7, be kept on the faculty until the end of the current academic year. She had planned to retire, but will remain on the staff because of an unexpected vacancy.

Parking Lot Plans Studied

Plans for a parking lot at the Girl Scout House on Greene Street are being studied by the Cumberland Police Department.

Some time ago, the Mayor and Council gave Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming authority to proceed with plans for the facility.

Mr. Fleming said space is available for about 62 cars at metered spaces.

He said the study is proceeding and will be presented to the Mayor and Council for adoption when all details are worked out.

Current plans call for the use of double-headed meters. No decision has been made on the time the devices can be set, but police said that will not be a problem, as meters can be adjusted for up to 10 hours of parking time for one coin.

Up to 100 cars are jammed in the area at present, parked bumper to bumper during daylight hours.
